

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I owe a deep debt of gratitude to my supervisor, S. P. Sengupta, M. A., Ph. D. (London), formerly Senior Professor and Head of the Department of English, at the University of North Bengal, for his valuable guidance and supervision.

I am indebted to Dr. Brigitte Maria Högermann, Directress, International Centre of Newman Friends, Littlemore, Oxford and Miss Amanda Hill of the Circle of Newman Friends, London, for their valuable suggestions on my topic. I am grateful to Dr. Ian Ker, a distinguished Newman scholar of international repute and Director, Research Degree Programme, Maryvale Institute, Birmingham for the interest he took in my work. My sincere thanks to the Newman scholars of different countries, from whose interactions I have profited during my stay in England, Rome, Switzerland and Germany. I have benefited from discussions with Rev. Abraham Murray S. J., Director, SASAC Sepoydhura, Darjeeling. I am thankful to Mrs. Elizabeth Perry, a distinguished educationist attached to a number of Universities in Canada and elsewhere. I am highly indebted to the Sisters of Mercy of the Holy Cross in India and Switzerland for their unstinted co-operation during my research work.

I am grateful to the staff of Bodleian Library, Oxford, Oxford and Cambridge University Libraries, Newman Library, Edgbaston, Birmingham, where the original manuscripts of Newman's writings are preserved, Newman

Library of the International Centre of Newman Friends, Oxford and Rome, the National Library, Calcutta, British Council Libraries Calcutta, Bombay, the Jesuit Libraries, Bombay, Pune, Delhi, Darjeeling, and North Bengal University Library, Raja-Rammohunpur.

The injuries I sustained in a car accident in January 1993 during my research work, have forced me to take a longer time to complete the work than I had expected. However, if my efforts can shed some light on Newman's spiritual pilgrimage as revealed through his poetry, I shall be amply and spiritually compensated.

Mary K. V.
Mary K. V.