This dissertation is a fruit of my persistent endeavour at a critical study of the themes and images in the poetry of A. K. Ramanujan. I, with a meagre knowledge, could not have ventured to prosecute this arduous task unless I received encouragement and help from numerous individuals and institutions. I recall with great gratitude the invaluable advice and help I obtained from them.

I will be failing in my duty if I do not acknowledge my debt to Professor Benoy Kumar Banerjee for his ready acceptance of me as his one of Ph.D researchers. Without his guidance and assistance, encouragement and supervision it would remain a far cry for me to accomplish this task.

My sincere and deep gratitude to Professor Niranjana Mohanty, the distinguished poet and the head of the department of English, Visva Bharati, knows no bounds for his untiring help and valuable suggestions. He, despite his various academic schedules devoted much of his time to go through my manuscripts.

I feel happy to record my sincere thanks to Mrs. Nomita Ghosal, former head of the department of English, Darjeeling Government College, for helping me in interpreting some of the difficult poems. In fact, she pioneered my love for poetry.

I remember with a sense of gratitude Miss Rita Ghosh, lecturer St. Joseph's College, Darjeeling, for procuring me the photocopies of the articles from CIEFL, Hyderabad.

Dr. Muna Hallis, head of the department of English, St. Joseph's College, Darjeeling, has been my constant inspiration. I owe a lot to her because she has rendered all possible help and inspired me whenever my interest waned.

My special thanks are due to Dr. Paul. L. Love, Director American College, Madurai and Mrs Vijaya Lakshmi Khuresti, the librarian Sahitya Acadamy, New-Delhi, for their generosity. They allowed me to utilize their libraries. Without their help, this dissertation could not have seen the light of the day.

I recall fondly Mother M. Damien, IBVM, the former Principal of Loreto college and Sr.M.Christine Coutinho the present Principal of Loreto College, Darjeeling, for their enthusiastic interest in my work. They were so kind to allow me to make use of the college library.

I have derived so much assistance and encouragement, strength and courage from so many friends and relatives in my humble academic venture that it is difficult to express my gratitude to all of them individually. However, I would like to thank Mrs. Kanta Pradhan and Mr. Debashish Ghosh for their courteous assistance, Mr Ishrad Ahmed, head of the department of English, Darjeeling Government College and his wife Mrs. Lalita Ahmed for their active support in my research work.

My brothers, Pradip and Pranab have undertaken the task of typing out my thesis and my youngest brother Prabir, has edited the photograph of the poet. I wish to thank them from the core of my heart. Last, but not the least, I would like to thank all my well-wishers and colleagues for their affections and encouragements which have gone a long way in shaping my present dissertation.
