

Acknowledgement

In the beginning I express my sincere gratitude to my reverend teacher Dr. M.M. Jana, Reader, Department of Geography and Applied Geography, University of North Bengal, India, but for whose unstinted guidance, preparation of my thesis would not have been possible. As supervisor, he took sincerest and most painstaking attention to give it present shape.

I am indebted Dr. Subir Sarkar, Head of the Deptt. of Geography and Applied Geography, University of North Bengal. In this regard, I must acknowledge my gratitude to Dr. H. K. Das Gupta, Principal, Union Christian Training College, Berhampore, Dr. Anuradha Sengupta, Lecturer of Malda Women's College, Malda, for their sincere co-operation to carry out this thesis in their own way.

I am grateful to different organisations and inhabitants of English Bazar town for their co-operation in collecting data and informations. I convey my sense of gratitude to Smt. Usha Chowdhury, Chairman of English Bazar Municipality and Sri Utpal Das, Sub-assistant Engineer. I am grateful to various Departments of Government of West Bengal (Department of Agriculture, land Reforms, Collectorate and Health Services) for there help at the time of field work.

Thanks are due to the staffs of the Central Library of the University of North Bengal, National Library, Calcutta for their support and help in locating the exact sources of informations which were necessary for the preparation of this work.

I am very much thankful to Babul Biswas who beared sufferings in computer typing the thesis and to Sri Kalyan Roy for his co-operation in different aspects I am thankful to Kb. E. Hoque, R. S for Bangladesh. and non-teaching staffs of the Deptt. of Geography and Applied Geography.

At last but not the least, I am a equally grateful to my father and family members as they have ungrudgingly spared me to carry out my studies.
