

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, I would like to express my deep sense of gratitude and heartfelt thanks to my respected supervisor Professor Chandan Kumar Mukhopadhyay, Ph.D. (Illinois, USA) of the Department of Economics, North Bengal University. This is my great opportunity that I got a chance to work under such a great academic personality and scholar. The present work would have been incomplete in the absence of his able guidance, invaluable suggestions, advice and encouragements. He regularly inspired me during the course of present study and went through each and every step of the present work and suggested many improvements despite the heavy pressure of his academic and personal works. This moment I have no words for the extension of my sincere thanks to him.

I would also like to extend my sincere thanks to Dr. Sanchari Roy Mukherjee, Head of the Department of Economics of NBU; Prof. K.K. Bagchi, Prof. Jeta Sankrityayan, Prof. Anil Bhumali and all the professors and Research scholars of Department of Economics of NBU for their comments and valuable suggestions.

I am also highly indebted from the Departments of Economics, Post Graduate Campus and Mahendra Morang Multiple Campus, Tribhuvan University, Nepal. I am thankful to Prof. Dr. Ramesh Dahal, Dr. Ramananda Thakur, Dr. Narayan Jha, Dr. Bhes Prasad Dhamala, Dr. Mahi Narayan Chaudhary, Dr. Ghanashyam Lal Das, Dr. Pramod Kumar Jha, Dr. Deepak Prasad Rijal, Dr. Bed Raj Acharya, Dr. Ramesh Prasad Adhikari, Mr. Damodar Prasad Upadhyay and Mr. Purna Prasad Dahal for their academic and moral support.

I gratefully acknowledge the financially support of the University Grant Commission of Nepal by providing me a partial scholarship for Ph.D. study. Thanks are due to Tribhuvan University (Nepal) for granting me study leave for higher studies. I also express my sincere thanks to the Library of Nepal Rastra Bank (Kathmandu) and Library of Post Graduate Campus (Biratnagar, Nepal) for providing me necessary materials for this study.

My special thanks are due to Dr. Udaya Raj Regmi who constantly supported and helped me by providing sufficient materials during the course of my study. I also express my deep sense of gratitude to my friend Shankar Prasad Acharya who regularly supported me in various stages of the present work.

Finally, my heartfelt thanks are due to my mother, my brother, sisters, wife Hemanta, children Saurav and Sameeksha, other family members, relatives, friends, well-wishers and neighbors who constantly encouraged me in the completion of the present work.

September, 2006. (North Bengal University).
