

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In preparing this thesis I have received a lot of help, cooperation, encouragement, valuable advices, suggestions and assistance from many quarters. I am grateful to all those who have helped directly or indirectly in accomplishing my research work. I take this opportunity to acknowledge my sincere thanks to one and all.

First of all, I owe my deep sense of gratitude to my research supervisor Dr. Raghunath Ghosh, Professor of Philosophy, University of North Bengal, whose valuable guidance, supervision and encouragement at every stage resulted in the completion of this work.

I am grateful to all Professors of the Department of Philosophy, University of North Bengal for their encouragement and inspiration.

I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Dikshit Gupta, Ex-Professor, Department of Philosophy, University of Calcutta, whose kind affection; valuable and timely suggestions and encouragement have led me to remain steady in my path.

I also like to record my gratitude to Dr. Laxmikant Padhi, Assistant Professor, Department of Philosophy, University of North

Bengal, for his keen interest and unflinching support for this research work.

I like to convey my gratitude to Dr. Malay Ranjan Sarkar, Principal, University B.T.& Evening College, CoochBehar for his help and co-operation in my research work.

I wish to thank all the colleagues of my college, who have provided a lot of help and co-operation for completion of this work.

I wish to record my thanks to the staffs of the Central Library of North Bengal University, Sanskrit Sahitya Parisad and National Library, Kolkata for their support and help in locating the exact sources of information which have been necessary for the preparation of this work.

I feel that I could not have finished this prolonged and troublesome work without the enormous help from my husband, Mr. Ashis Dey, who has stood by my side when I lost confidence and has given me moral support and courage.

Last, but not least, my heartfelt appreciation for all my family members specially my departed father and mother who are no more with me but I feel their invisible support and lot of inspiration to me, still now.

I am thankful to my little son, Debanjan, who has spared me from time to time for my research work, though he is completely unaware of the importance of my research work.

This work could not have been submitted in a proper manner without the patience and labour of Mr. Ashis Kr. Nag, who took meticulous care in typing this thesis. My affectionate thanks are due to him.

I also acknowledge my indebtedness to all those, whose works I have consulted, referred to and quoted.

There are many others who have offered their time, energy and advice in completing this work. Though I cannot acknowledge them by name, my gratitude to them remains all the same.
