This work has grown out of a special interest on "Regional History" in modern times keeping in view the modern trends in historical writings. As an inhabitant of North Bengal, I became very much interested with the Regional Economic History of this region. During the period of my intense investigations, I have been extremely fortunate to have assistance and cooperation from a large number of persons and institutions without which this task could not stand completed.

First of all I would pay my deepest sense of gratitude to my Supervisor, Professor Ananda Gopal Ghosh of the Department of History, University of North Bengal, under whose kind supervision this thesis has taken the present form. Despite his busy academic and social assignments, he carved out long hours to lend me persistent guidance. His constant supervision, guidance and inspiration through discussions encouraged and enriched me much to go ahead with this task. I am also grateful to Dr. Kamalesh Chandra Das, (Reader in History, Balurghat College), for his beneficial suggestions.

I owe a debt of gratitude to my teachers Professor, Ratna Roy Sanyal, Professor Ichhimuddin Sarkar of the Department of History, North Bengal University. I also thank Dr. Bijoy Kumar Sarkar, my senior and presently Head of the Department of History for his encouragement in the present work.

I would like to express my gratefulness for various help which I have received on several occasions by Sree Ashesh Kumar Das, Vivekananda Pally, Siliguri, Sree Chinmayakar Das, Senior Lecturer in Political Science, A.C. College, Jalpaiguri, Sree Parimal Bapari, Senior Lecturer in History, A.C. College, Jalpaiguri, Dr. Sangeeta Das, Senior Lecturer in English, A.C. College, Jalpaiguri, Sree Braja Gopal Ghosh, Assistant Manager of Mugalkata Tea Estate, Sree Manaranjan Guha Roy, an aged old social worker of Haldibari, Coochbehar and Smt. Papia Dutta, Lectutrer, Shamsundar College, Burdwan, Sree Samir Saha, Senior Lecturer in History, Siliguri College. I am thankful to my elder brother Sree Apu Ghosh, Howrah, Sibpur, for his constant encouragement.

For this work I owe debt to many people and Institutions and I am grateful to all of them. I have benefited from a number of sources in preparing this dissertation. I am extremely grateful to the learned scholars, academicians and authors whose work I have extensively consulted during the course of my study. I would like to put on record my sincere thanks and gratefulness to all of them.

During the long period taken in the making of this work, I had to utilize many traditional sources, relevant records preserved in the West Bengal State Archives, Calcutta, National Library, Calcutta, Cooch Behar State Library, Forest Department Northern Circle, Jalpaiguri, North Bengal University Library, Raiganj College Library, Ananda Chandra College Library, Jalpaiguri, Azad Hind Library, Jalpaiguri, Indian Tea Planters' Association, Jalpaiguri. I express my sense of gratitude to the staff of these institutions for rendering valuable help and cooperation in connection with my research work.

I pay my deepest regard to my late father who always inspired me for this work to be completed. I must also acknowledge my gratefulness to Smt. Basabi Ghosh, wife of my supervisor. I am deeply indebted to my wife Mrinmoyee and son Samarjit who sacrificed much of their social life and cooperated with me.

My hearty thanks go also to Sree Subir Das Mahanta for composing and formatting the thesis. The errors, if any, have been committed involuntarily. However, the errors in fact and in judgement are, of course, my own.
