

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I owe a deep sense of gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. Kanak Kanti Bagchi, Professor and Head, Department of Economics, North Bengal University, who despite his very busy schedule of research and teaching activities keenly supervised my thesis. Dr. Bagchi not only went through the drafts at different stages with painstaking care but also helped me in clarifying several conceptual problems which arose in the development of the study. I can not but mention the cooperation of Mrs. Bagchi who always showed great hospitality to me whenever I went to attend my supervisor, Dr. Bagchi, at his residence.

I take this opportunity to express my deep sense of gratitude to those personalities who have encouraged me to pursue my research work in different ways.

I acknowledge with sincere thanks the unhesitating cooperation of my friends who helped me immensely at the time of field survey in villages. I am also indebted to the sample farmers who were very cordial, cooperative and patient enough to answer the questions asked.

My thanks are also due to the North Bengal University Library, the National Library, Kolkata, the Library of the Centre for Studies in Social Science, Kolkata, the District Library of Uttar Dinajpur District, Block Development Officers, Branch Managers of different banks and officials of the office of Bureau of Applied Economics and Statistics, Uttar Dinajpur District.

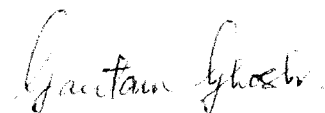

I would also like to express my gratitude to the scholars whose books, articles and dissertations I have consulted.

I am also under gratitude to the teachers and staffs of the department of Economics, North Bengal University for their cooperation.

I would also like to thank Mr. Ashis Kr. Nag for his sincere computerization work.

I am not going to miss the name whose contribution can not be expressed in any language, she is my life partner – Mrs. Beauty Ghosh. My blessings are with my sons – Samiran and Sourav who have been deprived of my love and affection in my absence for research work.
