I gratefully acknowledge the constant guidance of my supervisor Dr. (Mrs) Sanchari Roy Mukherjee, Reader, Department of Economics, North Bengal University, who, in spite of her various academic and administrative involvements, has spared valuable time for this work. She has been a source of inspiration to me. I would like to express my gratitude for the encouraging words of Prof. Jeta Sankrityayan, whose comments have enriched the work. I also warmly acknowledge Professor Anil Bhumali and Professor Kanak Kumar Bagchi for their constant inspiration in carrying out my work.

In various stages of my doctoral work, I have made academic discussion with Smt. Sudakshina Roy Dutta, Sri Tamash Majumder and Sri Gobinda Chowdhury and Smt. Panchali Sengupta for which I am thankful to them.

I heartily acknowledge my friend Dr. Sushil Halder, Reader, Department of Economics, Jadavpur University for his contribution in making me research oriented. I am especially thankful to NUEPA, MHRD, UNESCO and UNDP for allowing me access to their data base used later in my thesis. The data from various Government departments, especially, from the Directorate of Census Operation, Government of India and Department of School Education, Government of West Bengal, have been used for which I am also thankful to the Director of Census Operation, Kolkata and the Principal Secretary, School Education Department, Bikash Bhavan, Kolkata.

I am thankful to my colleagues and friends Sri Ratan Dutta, Sri Biswanath Sarker, Sri Goutam Roy, Smt. Sujana Murmu and Sri Aresh Roy for assisting me in the process of data collection and to Sri Sontosh Sahu for printing the text.

I am grateful to all those men and women and children whom I have met and have spent hours with, talking to them regarding their educational aspirations. Being a Headmaster of a High School, I have been deeply moved by the trials and tribulations experienced by those common people just to access the basic education.

Last but not the least, I am deeply grateful to my wife Smt. Sathi Basak and my children Parotrika and Prottyusha for putting up with my busy hours and for emotional support. I express my deepest gratitude towards my late parents, who, in spite of the financial constraints have educated me and helped in achieving the position that I have.

I sincerely hope that the readers of the thesis will find it beneficial and useful for further research.
