

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The present dissertation would not have been complete without the help, guidance and suggestions of Dr. Namita Choudhury, my teacher and supervisor. I take this opportunity to express my deep sense of gratitude towards her.

Dr. N.C. Choudhury, former Professor and Head of the department of Sociology and Social Anthropology, North Bengal University has a decisive role in my taking up this research work, selecting the topic and advising me to complete the task so far. As a teacher he is an institution to us, the students of Sociology and Social Anthropology Department of N.B.U His contribution is beyond acknowledgement in words.

The affectionate and instructive guidance of my teachers in the department of Sociology and Social Anthropology is unforgettable. Among them my special gratitude must go to Dr. S.R. Mandal, who has encouraged and advised me all through my work.

I am especially thankful to Dr. R.S. Mukhopadhyay, Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology, N.B.U., who has been working on the Rajbansis of North Bengal, and has provided valuable information and help to me.

I also take this opportunity to acknowledge the efficiency of Late Manoj Chakraborty who typed the major part of the manuscript. His untimely death obliged me to take help of Sri Samir Kumar Roy, who arranged the entire script in computer within a very short period. I owe my thanks to Sri Roy.

I will fail in my duty if I do not express my thanks for the students and the villagers of Phansidewa, without whose willing cooperation this work could not be completed. I must also thank my acquaintances in the villages, who had provided support during my field -work.

I will go amiss if I do not mention the name of Sri Sushil Chandra Kundu, the retired Head Master of Phansidewa High School, who provided me with the background information and history of the schools. I must thank him for his help.

Last but not the least, I must mention about Smt. Usha Rani Sarkar, my mother, Smt. Sipra Sarkar Das Roy, my elder sister and Sri Pradip Kumar Sarkar, My elder brother, who have been encouraging me and supporting me from their respective positions althrough the prolonged period of my research work.
