I wish to thank my parents in laws who have been a source of strength and support to me during the course of the study.

The wretched condition of the domestic workers in my own house and in our locality appealed me for finding out the root cause of their plight as they were all along an ocular proof before my eyes. So I remain grateful in some ways to them. I am also thankful to all the sample workers who shared their valuable experiences of their life with me to enrich my research work.

At the end I convey my thanks to God who makes all things possible.
