

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First of all, I would like to express my extreme gratitude to my supervisor, Professor Sanchari Roy Mukherjee, Department of Economics, North Bengal University for her wide range of knowledge and logical thinking with regard to the field of the research work that provided me a good basis for understanding, writing and presenting the thesis. I am really grateful to Prof. Mukherjee for her patience and guidance that gave me strength to complete this research work.

I would like to express my gratitude to all my teachers at the Department of Economics, North Bengal University for their valuable suggestions and support. I would also like to extend my gratitude to the Principal, Dr. Asim Kumar Mukherjee and colleagues, Siliguri College of Commerce, for their moral support. Special thanks go to the University Grants Commission for providing fellowship including financial support. I am thankful to the existing and retired officials of Siliguri Municipal Corporation especially those who are involved with the Urban Poverty Alleviation Cell, Refugee Relief and Rehabilitation Department (Siliguri), Government of West Bengal, for providing information and materials.

I am highly obliged to the library staff of United Nations Development Programme (New Delhi), Jawaharlal Nehru University (New Delhi), Institute of Local Government and Urban Studies (ILGUS), West Bengal and North Bengal University (North Bengal), for giving open access to all kind of books and journals related to the field of this study. I am thankful to the concerned officials of National Sample Survey Organisation (NSSO), Census of India, Bureau of Applied Economics and Statistics, Government of West Bengal. This research work would not have been possible without the help and support from everyone including the Councilors, Resident Community Volunteers of the sample areas for their kind co-operation. I am grateful and indebted to all the respondents for spending their valuable time in answering the research questions with patience and understanding.

Finally, last but not the least, I wish to express love and gratitude to my family members especially to my ever supporting life partner for understanding, inspiration and patience from the very first day to the completion of this thesis.
