

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The present study has been completed under the supervision of Dr. Kanak Kanti Bagchi, Professor in Economics, North Bengal University, to whom I express my deep sense of gratitude. Really speaking, the present work could not be completed without inspiring and learned guidance of Professor Bagchi. He always extended his valuable advice and suggestion in completing my study. As his research scholar, I found him a great personality and good source of academic carrier. I also express my gratitude to Mrs. Tanusri Bagchi, wife of my supervisor, for her hospitality, affection, inspiration and tolerance during the course of preparation of this research work. I also express my heartfelt gratitude to the all the members of Department of Economics, North Bengal University for their valuable suggestions and recommendations.

I also express my gratitude to Mr. Dillip Singh in the Ph.D. cell of North Bengal University for his kind assistance in the process of my Ph.D. registration, basic information and submission. I also appreciate the help provided by the library staffs of the University and Delhi Public Library, Delhi.

Special thanks to the library staffs of Nepal Rastra Bank central office Kathmandu, branch office library staffs of Biratnagar and staffs of Division Cooperative Office Morang. I also express special thanks to the cooperatives manager of different sampled cooperatives, different respondents of sampled area who gave the information on the study without any difficulties. I also respect their interest on my study, which encouraged me to find out the fact.

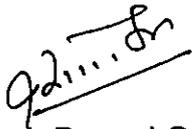

I express my special gratitude to learned personality Dr. Ramesh Prasad Adhikari, who helped me to complete the work and provide information. Similarly, I express my special thanks and gratitude to Professor Dr. Ramesh Dahal, Dr. Pramod Kumar Jha, Dr. Arjun Baral for their valuable suggestions, information and encouragement to complete the work.

No words are perhaps adequate enough to express my debts to my wife Sujata Koirala, who looked after the whole family and helped me to write this thesis. I am also indebted to my children Aryan and Aayam, who are the lesson for me to do such research work. I also express thanks to all my relatives and friends who encouraged me for completing the work for the degree of PhD in Economics. I also express my wholehearted regards to my mother and father.

Lastly, I express thanks to Ghosh Printers, Shiva Mandir, Kadamtala, Dist. Darjeeling for their computer setting and designing.

Department of Economics
North Bengal University.

(Ganesh Prasad Gautam)

Dated: 28-07-2011