

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This difficult endeavour which lasted for long years accumulated many debts to various people and institutions. I consider it my pleasant duty to acknowledge it here which sustained me through all my phases of distress and exuberance.

To begin with I would like to express my gratitude to my supervisor, Prof. Ratna Roy Sanyal of the Department of History, University of North Bengal, for introducing me to the world research and scholarships. She has guided this work with scholarly insights and had always been generous in giving useful required suggestions. It is indeed her guidance and constant encouragement that help to see the completion of this research work.

I take this opportunity to express my deep felt gratitude to my honourable teacher Dr. T. K. Roychoudhury, formerly Professor to the Department of History, University of North Bengal, who had always been a signpost of scholarship to me throughout my research work. I would like to gratefully thank my respected teachers Prof. Ananda Gopal Ghosh, Prof. Ichamuddin Sarkar, Prof. Anita Bagchi and Prof. Bijay Kr. Sarkar, Department of History, University of North Bengal, for bestowing their blessings upon me throughout my student life and also through the preparatory course of this dissertation. The association of Prof. Dalia Bhattacharya, Prof. Sudas Lama, Prof. Sukumar Das and Prof. Barun Kumar Roy of the Department of History of North Bengal University had been quite refreshing and encouraging to me.

It is imperative now to express my debt to the Principal of my college, Dr. Shanty Chhetry, who always accommodated my official requirements within the college schedule and had been inspiring enough in the process of carrying out the work with due academic seriousness. I am equally thankful to all my colleagues, especially to Dr. Sanatan Bhawal, Prof. Shyam Das, Prof. Rajadipta Roy of Sukanta Mahavidyalaya, Dhupguri, for their indefatigable support and helping hands which made my path easy to complete this research work. I would like to thank Dr. Sukanta Das for his careful reading of the whole thesis and for providing excellent editorial suggestions whenever I required them.

It is not out of place to express my humble gratitude to the officials and staff of the Central library of North Bengal University, especially to Sri Rajib Roy and Sri Ajay Misra who supported me all the time and helped me a lot to finish this research work in time. I thank the Registrar of the North Bengal University and the excellent crew of his office for all their necessary official inputs.

My sincere thanks to the Director and officials of the National Archives, New Delhi and also to the Director and staff of the State Archives, the officials and staff of the National library, Kolkata, the officials and staff of the Malda Collectorate, Librarian and staff of the Malda district library, and the Chairman to the English Bazar Municipality and his office are not enough in appreciating the effort all these astounding people in extending immeasurable help to finish the dissertation in a befitting manner.

Lastly, I owe my inestimable gratitude to my family – my parents Sri Animesh Sarkar and Smt. Mira Sarkar, my wife Smt. Dalia Sarkar and my brother Sri Pallab Sarkar for being ever with me in my hours of confusions and dire needs. Without their unending support both emotional and material, it would not have been possible for me to render this work its present shape and academic worth, if there is any.
