

Acknowledgement

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This thesis is the result of four years of work whereby I have been supported and critically advised by many people, who have, in one way or the other, made this doctoral thesis possible. It is a pleasant experience, and now I have an opportunity to express my sincere appreciation and gratitude to all of them.

With a deep sense of gratitude, I wish to express my sincere thanks to my well wisher and principal supervisor Dr. Ananda Mukhopadhyay, Professor and Head, department of Zoology, North Bengal University for his help, constant encouragement, guidance during the course of this study and also providing me necessary laboratory and departmental facilities.

I am also indebted to my co-guide Dr. G. Guru Subramanian, Reader, Department of Zoology, Mizoram University, for his invaluable guidance, wonderful support, unstinted efforts and timely help in planning and executing the work in time. The thoughts they have offered have enriched my thesis. During these 4 years I have known them as sympathetic, energetic, extremely helpful, hardworking and principle-centered persons. They not only spent countless hours of discussion with me and provided immediate comments, but also supported my ideas, even if immature and weird ones. Their enthusiasm and critical views on research have made a deep impression in my mind. I learned a lot of things from them for over the last five years. They introduced me to the more technical part of the subject with great patience and didactic skills and taught me many simple but very effective ways to do research. I was trained to be a professional. With them, my confidence has been reborn. My appreciation to Dr. Ananda Mukhopadhyay and Dr. Guru Subramanian cannot be described in words. I am very grateful to my teacher Mr. Goutam Ghose, who introduced me to the field of Entomology.

I am highly indebted to Dr. M. Hazarica, Director TRA Tocklai Experimental station, for having provided excellent field and laboratory facilities.

I am very grateful to Dr. N. Borpuzari (Ex CAO. TRA-WB.), Dr. P Ghosh (CAO. TRA-WB.), Dr. S. Sannigrahi, (Advisory officer TRA), Dr. M Sarkar, Academic coordinator Tea Managemet Dept. North Bengal University, I also extend my heartfelt thanks to Dr. S. Baisya, Advisory officer and In-charge TRA Terai branch, Siliguri, West Bengal, for his guidance, advice and inspiration during my study.

My warmest and sincere thanks are also due to Joytish Chandra Tarafder, Agricultural Development officer, Dr. Somanth Paul Agricultural Development officer West Bengal, Superswa Chakrobarty, Research Fellow, TRA Nagrakata Substation and Debasis Chowdhury, Deputy magistrate, West Bengal for their help, never ending support, valuable friendship and for being with me in my thick and thin.

I would like to thank my close friends Mr. Jagannath Mondal, Mr. Snahasis Saha Mr. Sambal Mondal, Mr. Shila Ditya Biswas, Mr. Mainak Mukerjee, and Mr. Dipankar Banerjee for their constant love, encouragement and support.

I would never forget the company I had from other research scholars of my department. In particular, I am thankful Mr. Dhiraj Saha, and Mr. Sibankar Guha, Ms. Soma Das, Ms. Paly Dhar Ms. Sangita Khewa and other research scholars of Zoology department for their help in various ways. It was a great pleasure to work with them.

Thanks also due to Dr. P. P. Dhar, reader (Research) Agril. Entomology, Bidhan Chandra Krishi Viswavidyalata, and Mr. Amulya Kr. Tarafder, head master Nababnagar K.K.J.K. Vidyapith (H.S.) for their constant support throughout this study.

I wish to acknowledge the support and affection extended to me by my parents, my beloved sister, Ms. Sutapa Banerjee (Roy) and every member of my family.

I am very grateful to the Managers of the respondent tea estates for providing the data and assistance and support in different field and laboratory works in their garden.

Indeed with great pleasure I would also like to thank the Zoology department staff in Mizoram University, Tea Research Association- Nagrakata and North Bengal University for all the necessary help rendered to me.

Finally, I would like to thank all whose direct and indirect support helped me in completing my thesis in time.

Somnath Roy
Somnath Roy