

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Research, though an enterprise, taken up by the researcher for his/her own academic fulfilment or such others, he or she cannot endeavour to complete this job single handedly as it becomes impossible for the researcher without help from the supervisor and the well wishers connected with. In this respect my case is also so obvious and I must mention the names and personalities without whose help my humble effort would not have been a reality. So I am to make some personal acknowledgement.

I remain deeply indebted to my guide (Supervisor) Dr. Kanti Lal Das, Prof. of Phil. N.B.U. who enthused me for this work long back. He is really my guru as well as happens to be true guide. With his inspiration and abled guidance I have been able to complete this work. My indebtedness to him is too deep to be expressed in words. I sincerely extend my gratefulness to him at this juncture.

I must record here my special debt of gratitude to the faculty members of the Dept of Phil of N.B.U. for their kind advice in the course of the work.

My special indebtedness will always be with Dr. Manjulika Ghosh who reminded me of my duty as well as ability the moment I passed by her.

I must also record special thanks to the Principal and the G.B. members of my college who sent me up for the Teacher fellowship. Here I would record special thanks to Mr. S.C. Roy, Deputy Secy. UGC (NERO) for awarding me Teacher Fellowship. In this respect I must have special thanks to the members of the Teachers fellowship Selection Committee for facilitating me for Teacher fellowship under FIP of the UGC. I must have words of thanks to my colleagues whose words of love many a time encouraged me and forwarded me to the work undertaken.

Also, here I would acknowledge thanks to the Librarian and staff of the central Library, N.B.U., the Director of the women's studies center and the staff, NBU, the Director of the women studies center, G.U. and the staff. I must also record my thanks to the Director and the staff members of ICPR, Lucknow for their sincere work in selecting books from the ICPR Library.

I must also record special words of thanks to my wife Sabitri who single-handedly took care of my family during my hectic hours at NBU. My words of love and affection are always with my children Hemangi, Rakesh and Barasha whose words of love incited me to this work. I must mention the co-operation and encouragement of other family members during the course of the present work.

At last I have to admit that Eco-feminism is a growing area in environmental ethics and hence I have to have more clarification on many points and many contexts. With all submission I would say that I have taken maximum care to make my work flawless. However, if inadvertently any flaw remains in conceptual or linguistic level, I myself own the responsibility for this.
