

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I acknowledge with deep gratitude my indebtedness to my revered teacher Prof. B. Bhattacharya^a for his invaluable guidance at all the stages of my research work for sparing his valuable time for supervising my work and for providing all facilities to complete the work in its present form. I am also highly indebted to the authorities which provided me with all the requisite information whenever required. My thanks are also due to different organisations in the cities and towns I visited for the collection of data required to accomplish the work. I am equally grateful to the University Grants Commission for providing me scholarship. I shall be doing a great injustice, if I do not acknowledge the ungrudging co-operation extended to me by my parents, husband and family members. Finally, my sincere gratitude is due to the teaching and non-teaching members of the Department of Geography and Applied Geography, the Librarian, the University of North Bengal and the General Administration of the University of North Bengal for their unstinted help in the preparation of this thesis.
