

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

My interest in the study of development economics and finance developed about one decade ago when as a P.G. student of this University I attended the classes of Dr. Malay Kanti Roy. Indeed, I have learnt from him my first lesson about why one should be interested in finance. Soon after my post graduation I was encouraged to take up a study on development economics by my teachers who happens to be my supervisors.

This research work would not have been possible without the guidance and the help of a large number of people. First and foremost I am extremely grateful to my supervisors, Dr. Malay Kanti Roy and Dr. Hirak Ray, both Reader, Dept. of Commerce, University of North Bengal under whose able guidance I have been able to prepare my thesis. No amount of thanks can express my gratitude to them. All along they have guided me with their invaluable suggestions for the improvement of my thesis. They were extremely patient with me especially with my asinine mistakes and carefully pointed them out to me at every juncture and helped me to correct them. I am also benefited from the valuable help and suggestions from the faculty members of Dept. of Commerce, University of North Bengal. I convey my sincere thanks to each of them.

I should express my sincere indebtedness to Sri Shasthi Bagchi, the teacher of my life, for his faith and trust that made me believe in myself. There are no words sufficient to express my gratitude to him.

I must express my heartfelt gratitude and thanks to Dr. Dilip Kr. Sarkar, Controller of Examinations, and Dr. Debasis Dutta, Deputy Controller of Examinations, University of North Bengal who let me work on my Ph.d thesis even as an employee of Examinations Branch, University of North Bengal. I am eternally obliged to them for letting me free from the daily work load to complete my Ph.d thesis. They had been the constant source of inspiration for me. Their active support made my dreams to come true.

I must take this opportunity to thank Dr. Swapan Kr. Rakshit (Registrar, Ad-hoc), Dr. Subrata Sanyal (Inspector of Colleges), Dr. Nupur Das (Secretary, Under Graduate Council), and Mr. Surajit Das (Accounts Officer) University of North Bengal, who enriched my thesis immensely with their support and inspiration.

I also thank the staff of the Grantha Bhavan, the Central Library, University of North Bengal, and Center for Social Science Studies, Kolkata who helped me with all the information that I required and made me felt welcomed in their libraries. I owe special thanks to Dr. Salil Kr. Mukherjee, Sr. Lecturer in Commerce, St. Joseph's College, Darjeeling, Mr. Ajay Misra, Documentation Officer, NBU and Dr. Saptarshi Ghosh, Head, Dept. of Library Science, NBU who have provided me with the various data, and related supports which have been used in my present thesis.

I am also indebted to Smt. Gouri Sen, ex-employee, University of North Bengal for her constant encouragement and support.

I will be failing in my duty if I do not thank Mr. Sanjib Das who kept always my P.C workable. I would also like to thank Mr. Swapan Kr. Mitra, Mr. Subir Das Mohanto, and Mr. Debasish Basak, who helped me invaluablely with the formatting of my Ph. D thesis.

I must thank my friends from University of North Bengal Mr. Goutam Sarkar, Mr. Dibyendu Bhattacharjee, Dr. Debabrata Deb and Mr. Joy Sarkar, who provided me with constant encouragement and strength, without which this piece of work could not have been completed.

Finally I will never find words enough to express the gratitude that I owe to my parents and my grand father. For my Grandfather the only ray of hope for his ever last few days of life was submission of my thesis. Throughout the period my parents were extremely cooperative and patient with my odd working hours and mood swings. Their tender love and affection has always been the cementing force for building the blocks of my academic career. The all round support rendered by them provided the much needed stimulant to sail through the phases of stress and strain.

My ever-caring wife Mrs. Sulagna Biswas has always taken personal interest in my work standing beside me during the most heart wrenching moments. I owe to her for ungrudgingly facing the hard times with or without me and making this effort successful.

I am really thankful to Mrs. Sanghamitra Biswas, Mr. Sushanta Biswas, and Miss. Moumita Bose, who had acted like a shadow during the process of submission of my thesis.

Finally, I must request for forgiveness to two precious gifts, my son Jishnu and my niece Guria whom I deprived a lot on the excuse of my Ph.d. Wish they may go beyond the present research to give me solace.

Needless to add, any errors and omissions found in the thesis are entirely my responsibility and I will be extremely grateful if they were pointed out to me.

Date: 23, 11, 2007.

Joydeep Biswas
Joydeep Biswas