

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is impossible to enumerate all those who have contributed to this study.

The researcher would like to thank the Vice-Chancellor, University of North Bengal, for continual encouragement and assistance.

The researcher also takes this opportunity to express his heartfelt appreciation to all the members and staff of the Department of Commerce, University of North Bengal, for all good things they did for him.

Grateful acknowledgement is made for aid, information, and suggestions to the staff of University Library and the Registrar, University of North Bengal, Australian and British Deputy High Commissioners, Calcutta, Canadian High Commissioner, New Delhi, United States Information Service, Calcutta, American Bankers Association, American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, American Stock Exchange Inc., The Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales, The Stock Exchange, London, The Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, The Canadian Bankers' Association, The Toronto Stock Exchange, The Bankers' Institute of Australia, The Institute of Chartered Accountants in Australia, The Securities Institute of Australia, Indian Bankers' Association, The Institute of Chartered Accountants in India, Calcutta Stock Exchange Association Ltd., Madras Stock Exchange Ltd., Bombay Stock Exchange and others who contributed to this study.

The researcher wishes to acknowledge the extraordinary generosity and cooperation of the bankers, chartered accountants, stock exchange members in U.S.A., U.K., Canada, Australia and India who responded to the questionnaires used in this study. Without their kind assistance this investigation could not have been completed.

The researcher humbly wishes to express his deep gratitude to Dr. R. C. Sharma, Reader, Department of Commerce, University of North Bengal, for his invaluable guidance and inspiration which enabled to bring this project to a successful completion.

A special note of gratitude also goes to Shri P. R. Sen-Gupta and Shri S. Bhattacharyya, colleagues in the Department of Commerce, North Bengal University, for their cooperation, suggestions and assistance.

Grateful acknowledgement is made of the assistance received in the preparation of graphs of this Appendix-C from Smt. Namita Das and Sreeman Biswajit Roy.

Special appreciation and gratefulness is extended to Shri Prem Ranjan Sengupta, the researcher's former colleague in Indian Railways for encouragement and aid to carry this present study.

This work is dedicated to researcher's wife, Smt. Renuka Sarker, without her patience, understanding, support and aid this dissertation would have been impossible.

Ganesh Chandra Sarker

(Ganesh Chandra Sarker)