

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This thesis is the end of my journey in obtaining my Ph.D. I have not travelled in a vacuum in this journey. This thesis has been kept on track and been seen through to completion with the support and encouragement of numerous people including my teachers, families, well wishers, my friends, colleagues and various institutions. At the end of my thesis I would like to thank all those people who made this work possible and an unforgettable experience for me. It is a pleasant task to express my thanks to all those who contributed in many ways to the success of this study and made it an unforgettable asset which would lifelong be cherished by me.

At the outset, I praise God, the almighty, with utmost humility, merciful and passionate, for providing me this opportunity, granting me the wisdom and capability to proceed successfully. The thesis appears in its current form due to the assistance and guidance of several people. I would like to offer my sincere thanks to all of them.

Firstly, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. Sujit Kumar Biswas, Assistant Professor, Department of Law, University of North Bengal, for his continuous support during my Ph.D study and related research, for his patience, motivation, and immense knowledge. He has been very liberal in tolerating me as his scholar, which would have been hard to come given his earlier avatar of a feared and appreciated disciplinarian. His guidance helped me in all the time of research and writing of this thesis. I consider myself fortunate enough to have been his student during my LL.B and LL.M days and I could not have imagined having a better Supervisor, advisor and mentor for my Ph.D degree.

A special debt of gratitude is owed to Prof. (Dr.) Gangotri Chakraborty, Former Head of the Department, Department of Law, University of North Bengal, my teacher and mentor who has been an inspiration since my LL.B days and continues till this day in my academic journey in completing Ph.D. I gratefully acknowledge her for her understanding, encouragement and personal attention which has provided good and smooth basis for my Ph.D tenure. I am grateful to her for her kind suggestion on my topic and for her guidance during the course work. Her valuable guidance, assistance, understanding and insight in the subject helped me in completing my work successfully. I am fortunate enough to have her as my teacher and co-supervisor.

I am also extremely indebted to Prof (Dr.) Ratin Bandyopadhyaya, Head of the Department, Department of Law, University of North Bengal, for providing necessary infrastructure and resources to accomplish my research work. I am very much thankful to him for believing in me as a student at the critical stage of my LL.M days. Sir your kind advice has immeasurably helped me complete this work.

I owe a deep sense of gratitude to Late Prof. B.P. Dwivedi for germinating the seed of Ph.D in me during my LL.M. days, which seems to have been a reality today.

A big thank you to my senior, brother, mentor, Shri Zangpo Sherpa, Learned Advocate, Supreme Court of India, for making me believe in my potentials. It was him to have lit the spark of higher studies in me and whenever the fire in me looked dim, he was always there to add fuel to it.

I would also like to thank my senior colleague Dr. T.D. Lama, Assistant Professor, Sikkim Government Law College, for his valuable suggestions, and words of encouragement which did help me complete this work successfully.

My friend Dawa Denzongpa also deserves my humble gratitude as he has contributed a lot in executing this assignment. To be honest the empirical study part would not have been possible without his support. Thanks bro.

The librarians and their assistants are the faceless people whose contribution though acknowledged may not be fully quantified. Therefore, I would like to thank all those librarians from Sikkim University, North Bengal University, Sikkim Archives, State Central Library, but my sincere thanks is reserved for Mr. Purna Bomzon, Librarian, Sikkim Government Law College, for his infrastructural contribution in completion of my work.

Finally, the role played by my family in moulding my life has been immense. An exceptional hearty thanks to my Grandmother, my Mom, my Dad, my Brother, my Sisters and my Daughter. Like always without your enduring support this work too, would not have seen the light of the day.
