

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Work of such a nature and magnitude is not possible to accomplish without help, support and encouragement from many people. It is indeed my pleasant privilege to express my deepest gratitude to all those who very kindly helped me in completing this research work.

When I decided to undertake this work, I was naturally unsure and hesitant because of the sheer enormity and complexity of the task. The defining moment was when I first approached Dr. Karubaki Datta with a request to be my guide for this doctoral research work. Her clear vision, conceptual clarity and humane personae endowed me with boundless hope and confidence. So enormous has been her help and guidance that it is practically impossible to express gratefulness to her for the same. Yet I do express my humble gratefulness to her. She has filled me with a confidence that I now, have no hesitation in taking a work of any magnitude under her benign guidance. I will be doing a great injustice to myself if I fail to acknowledge the library staff and the documentation staff of centre of himalayan studies for being the true and benevolent during my numerous visits to Siliguri that I undertook to complete this work.

My every achievement has been possible because of the blessings of Mr. Anil Kumar Chakladar and Mrs. Kumkum Chakladar, my revered parents. I am also indebted to Mr. Amit Das and Mrs. Rita Das, my in-laws for their unconditional love and support.

Prof P.K Saha, Honorable Vice Chancellor, University of North Bengal and Professor Tapan K Chatterjee, Registrar, University of North Bengal. Their emphasis on quality work helped me to remain cautious and aware of my deep obligations. With all my humility I thank these two distinguish academicians for their words of wisdom they enriched me with.

I feel infinitely indebted to Prof. Suparsho Chakraborty, Dean Academics ICFAI National College, Siliguri for his help without whose support I might not be able to commence my research. I offer my sincere gratitude to Mr Sudipto Mukherjee and Mrs Mahua Mukherjee for hosting me and being my Annapurna on my innumerable visits to the University. It is their unflinching support and cooperation without which I would not have completed my work.

I express thanks to Brig. (Dr.) S.S. Pabla and Brig. S Mishra, former and present Directors, Sikkim Manipal Institute of Technology, for their support particularly to allow me the extended leaves, that has been of critical importance to complete my study. I also extend thanks to Mr. Ajeya Jha, Head, Department of Management Studies, Sikkim Manipal Institute of Technology, for understanding my position and unremitting faith in me. I would not have completed my study but for his sustaining leadership. I also express my thanks to Mr. Manjit Singh, Mrs Sonia, Ms Anamitra, Mr. Bedanta, Mrs Anindita and all my colleagues at Sikkim Manipal Institute of Technology for helping me from time to time.

Dada, Boudi, and Bhai and have always been a constant source of inspiration. Their deep affection and belief were the most important components of successful conclusion of this work. Rumpa Arpita and Arpan stood by me at the time of needs and celebration. My precious children - Chiku, Tuski and Aditya are thanked for being the greatest source of happiness.

I find myself incapable to express my gratefulness to Asmita, my wife for her help. It is indeed a pleasure to express my genuine appreciation to all the participants who thoughtfully participated in the surveys and responded to my queries and offered valuable information and suggestions that have made this little work meaningful. To forget my students, would be like to commit a sin as it is with their help that my study took its present shape. At times they argued with me, provided invaluable information and gave me different perspectives regarding my study. All of which in their own way helped me a lot.

Endeavor of this nature draws life from works of various known and unknown scholars. I am fortunate to have learnt immensely from the vision and insight of many scholars. I offer my sincere gratitude to all of them. I may have inadvertently borrowed or quoted from their venerated works without mentioning their names. I request them to excuse me for the same and respectively give the credit due to them and acknowledge their work. Last, but not the least, I thank all those who have directly or indirectly helped me and whose names have now escaped from my memory. I gratefully acknowledge their help which indeed has been immeasurable.
