

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Gratitude is a noble response of one's soul to kindness or help generously rendered by another and its acknowledgement is a duty and a joyance. So it is that I express briefly my debt to those who have made the delivery of this thesis possible. My first obligation is to the University of North Bengal - an institution of educational excellence in higher learning - whose august and vast campus provided the infra-structural and logistical support for the completion of this work.

My supervisor, Dr. B.P.Dwivedi, Reader, Department of Law, North Bengal University has given me aid in myriad ways, the need for which is ineffable and mere acknowledgement inadequate. Even So, words are images of feelings and when feelings overflow semantic limits of verbal expression one has to make-do with the imperfect instrumentality of verbalism. I must thank my supervisor for the inspiration he has given me and for bestowing much of his valuable time and intense thought in going very carefully through every page of this work and also for his scholarly advice and his corrections and suggestions.

I must also express my gratitude to Dr. Ali Mehdi, Head, Department of Law, North Bengal University for the suggestions and constant encouragement he gave me throughout the period when the work on the thesis was going on.

I am also very much grateful to my relatives, my near and dear ones, viz. my mother and my in-laws, for their co-operation and their bearing with me and also their restless inspiration without which the completion of this thesis would not have been possible. Above all, I am thankful to my husband Mr. Nitesh Mozika for his devotion, affection and persistent attention in bringing out this work in its present form undeterred by hassles and tedium. The perennial labours he has invested in the product and the vigilant care he has bestowed from the beginning to the end exacts my gratitude and admiration. I am thankful to him for his concern at every stage and persistent pursuit, to see that the work is completed and has a peerless presentability.

My friends had made useful suggestions and meaningful contributions to the preparation of this work as I was struggling to snatch time, amidst a multitude of other commitments, to complete the same. I express profound thanks to these countless friends for their help.

I also extend my gratitude to all the staffs of the Law Department, especially the Library, for their assistance which was of immense value during the entire course of my work.
