

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In the first instance I would like to express my gratefulness to the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Department of Education, Government of India for giving me permission to pursue Ph.D. Programme in India.

I have great pleasure in expressing my deepest sense of heartfelt respect and profound gratitude to my reverend supervisor Professor Palas R. Sengupta, Department of Commerce, North Bengal University for his scholarly guidance, valuable instructions and suggestions throughout the entire course of my Ph.D. work and for giving share of his research experience and academic acumen. My indebtedness to him is indeed great.

For this highly data intensive study I am deeply indebted to the executives and officials of the BTMC and BTMA particularly Mr. Chowdhury A. K. M. Anis, General Manager and Secretary of BTMC and Mr. Enamul Hoque Choudhry, Secretary General of BTMA. I am grateful to the executives and officials of all the sample textile mills and other concerned offices of Bangladesh who extended co-operation and furnished me published annual reports, accounts, and responded to our questions.

My sincere thanks are due to all the researchers and authors, I have depended upon whose studies and whose works I have quoted at various places in the present study.

I wish to record my immense gratitude to Professor M.A. Mondol and Professor Abhinaya Chandra Saha who helped and advised me at different levels. My sincere thanks are due to other teachers and colleagues in the Accounting Department, University of Rajshahi, Bangladesh. I am also grateful to the authority of the same University for granting me study leave.

I am indebted to Dr. T.K. Chatterjee, the Register of North Bengal University for allowing me to pursue this programme and providing all necessary co-operation in this regard. Thanks are also due to the teaching and non-teaching staff of the Commerce Department, North Bengal University, West Bengal, India.

I acknowledge my gratefulness to the authorities and staff members of different libraries and institutions viz., Rajshahi University library, Rajshahi; Dhaka University library, Dhaka; Bangladesh Institute of Development studies, Dhaka; Institute of Business Administration library, Dhaka; Bangladesh Management Development Centre library, Dhaka; Indian Institute of Management library, Calcutta; Kalyani University library, Calcutta; North Bengal University library, Darjeeling; for their help and co-operation in collecting necessary information for this study.

Finally, my deepest thanks and indebtedness go to my husband Kh. Emamul Haque, Assistant Professor, Geology and Mining Department, Rajshahi University, Bangladesh; who has been a constant source of inspiration and whose matured suggestions, untiring assistance and extreme co-operation have been felt at every stage of the work. I am also indebted to my little children Sourhid and Rhidi who have been deprived enough from my care and company during the execution of my work. My real feeling in this regard is beyond expression.

Mrs. Salma Banu
