This is a pleasure for me to thank all those people without whom the entire journey of my PhD would have been impossible.

First of all I would like to express my sincere gratitude towards my honourable supervisor Dr. Basudeb Basu (Retired Professor, Department of Chemistry, University of North Bengal) for allowing me to work under his supervision. It is my privilege to work under his guidance with constant motivation.

I would like to thank CSIR, New Delhi for my Junior Research Fellowship and Senior Research Fellowship and DST, Govt. of India for providing infrastructural facilities.

I convey special thanks to all my colleagues from ABN Seal College, Cooch Behar for their understanding and support. It is also very encouraging to have a bunch of wonderful students who always thrive me in the process of continuous learning.

I cannot emphasize enough about Satadal who is the one who constantly motivated me to conclude the entire journey. It is so reassuring to have him beside me in every dimension of my life.

Finally and immensely, the entire journey of my PhD and all that I have achieved would have been impossible without my parents Mrs. Nibedita Bhattacharya & Mr. Biswa Ranjan Bhattacharya, to whom I owe everything. Their constant encouragement, support and love have been tremendous. Without their blessings I would never be able to be here today.

Thank you all for making this journey worth remembering.
