

Title of the Thesis

The Problem of Meaning: A Fregean Account

CONTENTS

	Page No.
Acknowledgements	i-ii
Preface	iii
Abstract	iv-vi
General Introduction	1-22
Chapter 1: Nature of Proper Names: A Comparison among Frege, Mill and
Russell	23-81
1.1: The Theory of Meaning Concerning Proper Name	27-37
1.2: Empty Proper Name	37-41
1.3: Do Proper Names Have Sense?	41-56
1.4: Dummett's Observation of Frege's Proper Name	56-76
1.5: Two Different Types of Analysis of Sentences	64-71
1.6: Criterion of Application and Criterion of Identity	71-76
1.7: Comparison among Frege, Mill and Russell	76-81

Chapter 2: Sense and Reference as the Criterion of Meaning	82-123
2.1: The Puzzle of Identity	84-99
2.2: The Notion/Understanding of Conceptual Content (Begrifflichen Inhalt)	90-94
2.3: Cognitive Value and Conceptual Content	94-99
2.4: The Puzzle of Empty Proper Name	99-103
2.5: Meinong's View of Negative Existentials	103-104
2.6: Russell's Interpretation of Negative Existentials	104-105
2.7: Fregean Interpretation of the Problem of Empty Proper Name	105-123
2.8: Indirect Reference as the Paradigm of Fregean Semantics	106-112
2.9: Indirect Speech as the Mark of Accommodating Empty Proper Name	112-123
Chapter 3: Frege's Concept of Thought and its Philosophical Implication	124-162
3.1: Word-Question or Sentence-Question is the Beginning of Thought	127-130
3.2: How does Thought Link with Sense?	130-132
3.3: Various Levels of Thought	132-135
3.4: The Objectivity of Thought	135-139
3.5: Thought and Idea	139-144
3.6 Is a Thought an Idea?	144-147

3.7: Is Thought Real?	147-157
3.8: Sense and Thought	157-158
3.9: Church's Apprehension of Frege	158-162
Chapter 4: Contemporary Debate regarding Frege's Theory: A Response	163-189
4.1: Russell's Criticism of Frege	163-166
4.2: Kripke's Criticism of Frege	166-183
4.3: Putnam's Criticism of Frege	183-186
4.4: Stroll's response to Putnam	186-188
4.5: My Observation	188-189
Chapter 5: Concluding Remarks	190-218
Selected Bibliography	219-237