ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This is the most opportune moment to express my gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. Pabitra Roy, whose assistance, encouragement and active co-operation helped me to complete this thesis. In spite of his engagement with academic and administrative assignments, he spent a considerable time to go through the present work and made necessary amendments. Without his invaluable suggestions and constant co-operation it would not have been possible to complete the present work within this short span of time. I tried to incorporate in my thesis most of the suggestions given by him from time to time while guiding my work. In all humility I acknowledge my indebtedness to him.

It also gives me immense pleasure to appreciate the help that I got from my teachers and colleagues. I am much indebted to Prof. Dikshit Gupta, Department of Philosophy, Calcutta University for his helpful suggestions and guidelines at the very initial stage of this dissertation. He was a torch-bearer to me when I was groping in the dark. I am also grateful to Prof. Kumudranjan Goswami, Mr. Subir Ranjan Bhattacharjee, Reader in Philosophy, University of Calcutta, Dr. Raghunath Ghosh, Dr. (Mrs.) Manjulika Ghosh, Dr. Chandidas Bhattacharjee, Dr. Jyotish Chandra Basak (all from North Bengal University) deserve special mention in this regard.

I am also grateful to the University Grants Commission for providing me financial aid (as a UGC research fellow) which I availed for two years before joining as a lecturer in the Department of Philosophy, University of North Bengal. This aid ensured the smooth progress of my work.

I am much indebted to my family members, and specially to my wife, Arpana who has inspired me since the first day of our togetherness, and has borne all the pangs of being deprived of the sweet moments that I took away from her while writing out of my thesis. I must mention here the name of Arka-prabha, our new born son, whose blessed innocence has been a constant source of inspiration to me to go ahead and submit my thesis to honour and celebrate his arrival on this beautiful earth. I humbly and gratefully acknowledge the kindness, the warmth and the generosity of all.

At last it needs to be mentioned that I have taken maximum care at my level best to make my work flawless. In spite of this if there is any flaw I myself own the responsibility for this.
