

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I wish to express my deepest gratitude to my guide Dr. A.P. Das, Professor of Botany, Taxonomy and Environmental Biology Laboratory, North Bengal University, at the cost of whose time and invaluable guidance this research work has been carried out.

I am grateful to the Head and all other teachers as well as the faculty members of the Department of Botany, North Bengal University for their cordial support. I also express my sincere thanks to Dr. A. Mukhopadhyay of Zoology Department for providing some information on faunistic richness of the Neora Valley.

I owe my special thanks to Mr. A.K. Raha, the then Conservator of Forest (Wildlife), Mr. Niraj Singhal, Divisional Forest Officer (Wildlife), Mr. D. Sherpa, Range Officer and other staff of the Forest (Wildlife) Department, Government of West Bengal for their administrative and other support, specially during the field work.

I am thankful to the Department of Forest and Environment, Government of West Bengal for providing Research Fellowship to me for carrying out the present assignment. I wish to express my gratefulness to the authority of North Bengal University for providing me all support and permission to visit various institutions for research related work as well as to attend seminars, symposia and workshops for wider exposure.

I also express my thankfulness to my senior colleagues of the Laboratory Dr. A. Acharya, Dr. A. Samanta, Mr. Dorjay Lama and my colleagues Mr. G.G. Biswas, Mr. Animesh Sarkar, Ms. Tanushree Ghosh and Ms. Arpita Dutta for their cooperation in laboratory work. I give my special thanks to Mr. Pran Govinda Nag, Mr. Navin Singh, Mr. Basu Sunar and Mr. Bhupal Rai who rendered help to me in the field survey as well as in my laboratory work. I also take this opportunity to convey my sincere thanks to the seniors of other laboratories of the Botany Department, namely, Dr. Gouri Das, Dr. Jiwan Paul, Dr. Sharmista Banerjee as they cooperated me on a number of occasions. I also convey my thankfulness to University Library staff, who gave me an access to various literatures during my research period.

It remains in my part to acknowledge indebtedness to the dignitaries of various institutions who have rendered encouraging assistance to me in my research activities. Some of them include Dr. E. Sharma, Scientist-in-Charge, Gobinda Ballav (GB) Pant Institute for Himalayan Environment and Development, Sikkim, Dr. R. B. Bhujel, Kalimpong College, Mr. Alok Mukhopadhyay, Chief Executive (VHAI), New Delhi, Dr. B. B. Rai, Executive Director of Voluntary Health Association of Sikkim, Dr. H. Lepcha, ex Principal Director (Health Services), Govt. of Sikkim, Mr. P. D. Rai, Sikkim Computer and Systems, teachers of the Botany Department of Sikkim Govt. College, Mr. C. College and Dr. R. K. Avasthe, W.W.F.-India.

I am very grateful to the Director, Botanical Survey of India, for allowing me to stay in the Guesthouse at Sibpur, Calcutta during my visit to Central National Herbarium (CNH). I am also thankful to the Scientists of CNH for the kind help they rendered to me in determining and scrutinizing some of my dubia herbaria. They generously offered their comments and suggestions in a number of ways and encouraged me to extensively work on the flora of virgin and unexplored Neora Valley National Park. I extend my thanks to the Curators of CNH (CNH), Sibpur, Herbarium of Forest Department, Govt. of Sikkim and Botanical Survey of India, Sikkim Circle, and the Librarians of CNH, Calcutta, GB Pant Institute, Tadong, Community Library, Gangtok and the Library of Sikkim Science Society for the facility of using their Herbaria, Libraries and archives.

I reserve my special thanks to Mr. L. K. Rai of GB Pant Institute for Himalayan Environment and Development, Tadong for his ungrudging help despite his own tremendous workload. I also accord my gratefulness to Late Nimchyo Rai, Mr. K.K. Sharma, Mr. Ranger Rai and Mr. Om Prakash Rai for their assistance in preparing the manuscript of this thesis. I also take this opportunity to thank Mr. Suresh Lama of Sikkim Computers and Systems for his technical help pertaining to computer software and systems.

I must acknowledge the invaluable helps received from the herdsmen in the risky jungles of Neora Valley who guided the research team in the difficult terrain and impenetrable thickets of forest, and also provided us with the shelter in their cowsheds and huts.

I would also like to place in record my sincere gratitude to Dr. A. S. Chauhan, Botanical Survey of India, Gangtok, Prof. K.V. Krishnamurthy, Bharatidasan University, Tamil Nadu, Late Prof. V. V. Shivarajan, Calicut University, Kerala, Prof. A. K. Pandey, Bhagalpur University, Bihar for their appreciation and encouragement.

Before concluding, I would lay special emphasis to thank my papa Mr. P. M. Rai, my mother Mrs. (Late) S. M. Rai, brothers and close relatives Mr. A. K. Rai, Mr. D. B. Rai, Mr. K. K. Rai, Mr. D. M. Rai, Mr. C. B. Rai, Mr. J. K. Rai and my only sister Mrs. Damber Kala Rai without whose constant support, love and care this work would not have been completed. Thanks are also due to the family members of my guide, mainly Mrs. Ruby Das for her care and sympathies toward me.

I also express my hearty thankfulness to my close friends Ms. Indira Chettri, Mr. Santosh Allay, Mr. Sanjay Bantawa, Mr. Durga Thulung and Ms. Neelima Rai who constantly persuaded me to complete this challenging work and extended hearty support to me.

Last but not the least, I sincerely convey my thanks to all of them whom I may have inadvertently missed acknowledging.
