

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the beginning, I would like to express sincere gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Debasis Bhattacharya and my earlier Supervisor Professor Ajit Kumar Ray for their support and guidance right through my research work. Their professional advice and endurance helped me tremendously in all aspects of my study and also persistently re-energized me with much needed exhilaration and direction.

I also profited greatly from conversation with Soumitra Ghosh (secretary, NESPON) whose works on conservation issues of North Bengal always thrilled me. Several activists of forest villages of North Bengal who are leading a movement under the organization 'Rastriya Van-Jan Sramajibi Manch' helped me in understanding the depth of the issues.

I also take this opportunity to thank Asst. Prof. Joy Sarkar (NBU), all other respected faculty members and fellow doctoral students associated with the Department of Commerce, University of North Bengal, for their whole hearted encouragement, support and invaluable critiques.

I wish to express my sincere gratitude to the Forest Department, Government of West Bengal for providing me the opportunity to use the library of 'Aranya Vaban' Kolkata. I am also thankful to the department for allowing me to travel to the remotest forest villages of the tiger reserve.

Among the numerous contributors who have cooperated in this endeavor, specifically the Panchayat members, JFMC's office bearers and local forest officials deserves a grateful thanks from me.

I am profusely grateful to all my family members who have been a pillar of support especially my mother, my wife and my darling son Pinak, who has had to bear a lot by way of sacrificing quality time.
