

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my teacher, Dr. Ragbunath Ghosh, Reader, Department of Philosophy, University of North Bengal whose encouraging guidance and supervision have made it possible to carry out the present thesis. I am sincerely thankful to all members of the department of Philosophy, North Bengal University. My special thanks goes to Dr. P.K.Roy, who inspired me by giving valuable suggestions in the beginning. I am also thankful to the authority of North Bengal University for offering me research fellowship and also for the necessary assistance from the University Library. I am thankful to the National Library authority, Calcutta, for their assistance. I am thankful to all my friends of Research scholar's hostel, North Bengal University, particularly Kajal, Subrata, Pranabendra and Prakash for their various helps.

My family has played a special and crucial role in making this thesis possible. It is my wife, Chandrani, whose last moment constant encouragement helps me a lot.

A word for my beloved mother, "I am here today because of her". I am thankful to DTP Point, Ghosh Printing, S. N. Bose Road, Sivmandir for sincere effort in typing my thesis within a very short period of time.

I am indebted to all whose names have not been mentioned but have substantial contributions to my research work.

At last it is my daughter's beautiful smile which inspires me to complete this thesis.

University of North Bengal.

15th March, 1999

Asbis Tarafder
(Asbis Tarafder)