

A C K N O W L E D G E M E N T

The present thesis embodies the results of research carried out by the author in the Department of Chemistry, University of North Bengal, Dist. Darjeeling, West Bengal, India.

The author deems it a great privilege to express his profound sense of gratitude to Dr. A.K.Ghosh, D.Phil, Professor of Chemistry, University of North Bengal, for his wise guidance, watchful care and incessant encouragement bestowed throughout the investigation.

The author is indebted to Dr. B.K.Das, D.Sc., Reader in Chemistry, University of North Bengal and Dr. P.S.Roy, Lecturer in Chemistry, University of North Bengal for their keen interest and helpful suggestions. Grateful thanks are due to Dr. R.E. Hutton, Akzo Chemie UK Ltd. (England) for providing some starting materials and reprints which facilitated the work.

In this occasion the author would like to record his appreciation for the help extended by Professor U.R. Ghatak, Indian Association for the Cultivation of Science, Calcutta, India and to Professor (Mrs) A.Chatterjee, Calcutta University, India for the micro analysis of some samples. Thanks are also due to the Director, Central Drug Research Institute, Lucknow, India, the Director, Bose Institute, Calcutta, India, the authority of Mikro Analytche

(II)

Laboratorium of Dr. Alfred Bernhard, West Germany and Mr. P.P.Ghosh Dastidar, Department of Medicinal Chemistry, Indian Institute of Chemical Biology, Calcutta, India for micro analysis and recording PMR and UV-Visible spectra.

The author likes to extend his profuse thanks to Dr. S.K.Saha, Scientific Officer, Dept. of Chemistry, University of North Bengal and Dr. S.L.Dutta, formerly Electro Instrumentation Officer, Dept. of Chemistry, University of North Bengal and Dr. S.Banerjee, Head of the Dept. of Quality Control, ALA Chemicals Ltd, Maharashtra, India, for their excellent technical help.

The author is thankful to his friends and colleagues who extended their cooperation whenever it was needed.

The author expresses his thanks to the authorities of the University of North Bengal for the award of Research Scholarship and providing laboratory facilities.

These are not all. Always there are some sorts of help which are neither vocal nor visible. How can the author express in words the gratitude for the inspiration, which he felt in every moment, from his parents, elder brothers, sisters in law (BOUDIES) and other family members? The author knows his debt to them knows no bound.

Department of Chemistry,
North Bengal University,
Dist. Darjeeling, West Bengal
INDIA

(BARUN KANTI DEB)

July, 1983.