At the very outset I express my heartiest gratitude to my supervisor, Professor Raghunath Ghosh, Department of Philosophy and Dean, Faculty of Arts, Commerce and Law, University of North Bengal, for his constant guidance, valuable suggestions and inspiration which enabled me to complete my thesis. In spite of his academic and administrative engagements, he spared his valuable time in going through my entire work and giving me valuable suggestions from time to time. I humbly express my indebtedness to him.

I am equally grateful to all other faculty members of the Department of Philosophy for their encouragement, co-operation and precious suggestions regarding my present field of work.

I feel privileged to thank the Indian Council of Philosophical Research for their assistance in various matters relating to my work. I also extend my heartfelt thanks to the staff members of the library, staff members of the Department of Philosophy, staff members of the registrar branch for their whole hearted co-operation in submitting this thesis.

I have no words to express my love and heartfelt gratitude to my husband Dr. Kantilal Das, Reader, Department of Philosophy, University of North Bengal for his constant inspiration, strong mental support, silent sacrifice and guidance throughout the entire period of writing my thesis. My little son Arkaprabha has sacrificed his valuable pleasant moments when he needed me. I am thankful for his loving co-operation.

I also express my humble gratitude to my elder brother Professor Samirendra Nath Dhar, Department of Commerce, University of North Bengal for his inspiration and encouragement throughout my academic carrier. I also convey my deep sense of gratitude to all the other members of my family and my close friend circle for their encouragement behind my work.
