

CONTENT

CHAPTER I: Introduction	1-15
What necessitated this study	1-8
Objectives of the study	8-9
Review of literature	9-11
Research questions	11
Methodology	12
Brief outline of chapters	12-15
CHAPTER II: Insights from the Indian Tradition and Praxis: Arthaśātra Tradition and the Nītisāstra Tradition	16-73
Prelude	16-17
Arthaśātra tradition	18-27
Need of statecraft	27-31
Somedeva Suri's view	31-39
Kamandakiya Nītisāra	39-44
Śukrachārya's Nītisāra	44-62
Tiruvalluvar's Tirukkural	63-70
Epilogue	70-71
References	71-73
CHAPTER III: Rājdharma: A Coinage for Good Governance in Ancient India	74-89
Rājdharma in Epics	74-85
Rājdharma in Manusmṛiti	85-88
References	88-89
CHAPTER IV: Administrative Corruption: Causes and Remedies	90-119
The advent of modern administration	90-100
What is corruption?	100-105
Factors responsible for corrupt practices	105-110
Some recommendations for the eradication of corruption	110-115
Concluding observations	115-116
References	116-119

CHAPTER – V: Ethical Codes: The Reinforcement of Morality in Administration	120-161
A prologue	120-122
Sorkin’s insight	122-134
Power and its nature: views of some great masters	134-141
An analysis of integrity	141-157
References	157-161
CHAPTER VI: Conclusion	162-171
Summing up and some findings	162-169
Limitations of the study	169-170
Scope for further research	170
Reference	171
BIBLIOGRAPHY	172-178