

Contents

	Page No.
Chapter I	Introduction
1.1	Silk	1
1.2	Malda Region	3
1.3	Silk Route to Malda	6
1.4	Malda Silk in the Pre-British Period	10
1.5	The Pre-capitalist Structure	16
1.6	Interest of the Europeans	22
Chapter II	The East India Company (Early Settlement)
2.1	Opening of the Malda Factory	30
2.2	From Malda to English Bazar	35
2.3	The Early Company System (investment)	41
	(a) Their interest
	(b) Procurement and pricing
	(c) Grading to quality
	(d) Indigenous funds for the company
2.4	Factory Organisation	53
2.5	The Competitors	56
2.6	Problems of Investment	60
2.7	Growth of Company's Trade	64
Chapter III	From Manufacturing to Raw Silk
3.1	The Perspective	80
	(a) Strength of the Company
	(b) Economic transition
3.2	Malda Silk up to Palashi	86
3.3	Trend after Palashi	93
	(a) Extension of investment in raw silk

	(b) Organisation of silk trade
	(c) Weavers starve
	(d) Company as the revenue collector
	(e) Problems of price and quality
	(f) Problem of silver
	(g) Conflict with the French
3.4	Silk as a Source of Private Fortune	118
	(a) Individual motive
	(b) The spread of filatures
3.5	Oppression and Resistance	126
3.6	The Famine and the Rebellion	134
	(a) A natural calamity?
	(b) Artisans take to arms
3.7	Position of the Industry up to 1834	144
	(a) The depression
	(b) Growth of demand renewed
	(c) Weaving still existent
	(d) Pricing
	(e) Prospect of a capitalist enterprise
	(f) Technological diffusion

Chapter IV Fifty Years After the East India Company

4.1	The Transfer of Filatures	173
4.2	Market Trends	175
4.3	Early Signs of Regional Specialization	181
4.4	The Famine Again	183
	(a) The famine and the relief policy
	(b) The impact
4.5	The Fiscal Burden	188
	(a) Income tax
	(b) License tax

	Page No.
(c) Impact of the license tax - a closer look
4.6 The State of the Industry	202
 Chapter V Observations up to 1947
5.1 A Review of the Organisational Structure of the Industry	216
5.2 The Course That Followed (1886-1914)	220
(a) A decline
(b) Condition of weaving
(c) Raw silk
(d) Regional specialization
(e) Experiments
(f) A review of the causes of decline
5.3 From 1914 to 1947	242
(a) War-impetus - World War I
(b) Remnants of the weaving branch
(c) Experiments : co-operation
(d) The trend
(e) The case for protection
(f) After protection
 Chapter VI Summary and Conclusions	283
 Appendices
A. The Controversial Farman	304
B. Famine Relief ; Some documents relating to Malda (1873-74)	309
C. A Note on the Sannyasi and Fakir Rebellion	316

	Page No.
D. Identity of a District : the case of Malda	319
E. Price of Bengal Raw Silk	326
Bibliography	329

N.B. - Notes and References have been placed at the end of each chapter.