

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my unique privilege to have had Prof. N. Malla, Department of Philosophy, School of Social Sciences, North-Eastern Hill University, Shillong, as my Supervisor, and Dr. C.R. Agera, Reader, as my Co-Supervisor. Their inspiration, guidance, and goodwill were always with me throughout the period in which I was engaged in the writing of the dissertation. I remain indebted to both of them for their invaluable suggestions which went a long way in shaping the dissertation. Prof. Sujata Miri, Head, Department of Philosophy, NEHU; Prof. Miri, Dr. Daniel and Dr. Jagat Pal for their encouragement.

I am thankful to the United Theological College, Bangalore, and Sacred Heart College, Mawlai, Shillong, for providing help and library facilities during my course of study.

Also, I am grateful to my friend, Dinel Uriah, who typed out the draft of the dissertation, and Mr. Joseph F. Khongbuh, for completing it in his final typing.

My mother and my wife had been an inspiration and strength to my effort, without whose help and prayer, my labour could not be completed. Over and above all, I thank God who had given me his Blessings and Grace, without whom, all my work would be in vain.

SHILLONGTHE 31st MARCH 1992.S. R. Lyndem*
(SAMUEL R. LYNDEM)