I have done the research work under the supervision of my teacher Dr. P.C. Sarkar, Professor of Economics, University of North Bengal, who helped me in every phase of the work with active guidance. In fact it is he who awakened my interest in the present field of study. I have no doubt that any formal acknowledgement would fail to reveal my debt to him.

I am also indebted to innumerable households, farmers, labourers of all the sample villages I have surveyed, to officials and members of panchayets, banks, schools, health centres, Chanchal Police Station, and different development agencies at the block, Sub-division or district level for the services they so kindly rendered.
