

C O N T E N T S

	Page
PART - A
CHAPTER - I (Review) ..	1 - 32
1.1 Preparation of cyclopropanes	1
1.2 Ketocarbene and ketocarbeneoid reactions catalysed by metals, metal salts and metal complexes ..	7
1.3 Carbenoid reactions under catalyst and irradiation ..	14
1.4 Structure of carbenes ..	15
1.5 Mechanism of cycloaddition reactions of carbenes ..	18
1.6 Mechanistic pathways for carbenoid reactions ..	26
CHAPTER - II
Scope, Objectives and Summary of the work	33-38
I. Reaction of diazoketene with a few olefins ..	34
II. Irradiation reactions of α -ketocarbeneoids with cyclohexene and its derivatives	35
III. Preparation of the cyclopropane derivatives by some other method ..	36
CHAPTER - III (Results and discussions)
3.1 Synthesis of cyclopropane derivatives by an easy selective method	39
3.2 Preparation of cyclopropyl derivatives via keto carbenoid reactions	42
3.3 Structural elucidation of cyclopropane derivatives by spectroscopic methods	46-71

3.3(1) A brief review of spectral data
Infrared spectra ..	46
UV spectra ..	48
NMR spectra ..	51
3.4 Interpretation of IR spectra of the cyclopropane derivatives	58
3.5 UV - absorption of some cyclopropane derivatives ..	61
3.6 Interpretation of pmr spectra of cyclopropane derivatives	62
3.7 Interpretation of mass spectra of cyclopropane derivatives	68
3.8 Spectral analyses of side products	71
CHAPTER - IV (Experimental) ..	72-110
4.1 Preparation of cyclopropanes by easy selective methods	73
4.2 Preparation of diazoketenes	84
4.3 Preparation of cyclopropanes by carbenoids ..	87
4.4 Irradiation reactions of α -ketocarbenoids with cyclohexene and its derivatives	110
REFERENCES ..	119-132
PART - B
CHAPTER - V
A general review on cyclopropane	133-144
CHAPTER - VI
Scope, objectives and summary of the work	145-147

CHAPTER - VII

Results and discussions .. 148-155

CHAPTER - VIII

Experimental .. 156-190

8.1 Reactions of cyclopropane derivatives
with various acids and bases 156

8.2 Reactions of cyclopropane derivatives
with grignard reagent .. 180

REFERENCES .. 191

Appendix - I .. 197

Appendix - II .. 205

Conclusion .. 207