

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Though the authorship of a research paper is usually attributed to a person, the sociological research is mainly a joint affair. During the course of study, many people contribute to it in one way or the other. As such, while I bear the full responsibility of the interpretations and conclusions, like to express my sincere gratitude to those who were extremely helpful in sparing their invaluable time and energy to this project.

First of all, I must express my sincere tributes to my teacher and guide, Dr. N.C.Chowdhury, Professor (Retired), Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology, University of North Bengal, for his careful guidance, invaluable suggestions and constant encouragements. He took keen interest all along and spared considerable time for me. Without his help, this challenging task would not have been completed.

I want to express my gratitude to Dr. Namita Chowdhury, Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology, University of North Bengal for her suggestions and encouragements throughout the course of my study. I also like to express my indebtedness to Dr. Rajatubhra Mukherjee and Dr. S.R. Mandal, Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology, University of North Bengal for their invaluable suggestions in the initial periods of the study.

I must pay my sincere gratitude to Dr. Aswini Pal, Reader, Department of Agricultural Economics, Bidhan Chandra Krishi Viswavidyalaya, North Bengal Campus for his immense help towards framing the discriminate function analysis in Chapter-VII and Chapter-VIII in particular and towards the study in general. He spared considerable time for me, often by sparing his extremely valuable time and depriving his own research students also.

Much debts are due to Dr. Sekhar Sirkar, Principal CoochBehar College for his help and inspiration to me throughout the period of study. I am also very much indebted to Bijoy Bihari Som, Lecturer, Deptt. Of Sociology, Tufanganj College and Dr. Maloy Ranjan Sarkar, Deptt. of Economics, Cooch Behar College for their constant assistance and encouragements. I should pay my reverence to Dr. Atanu Sarkar, Lecturer, Bidhan Chandra Krishi Viswavidyalaya for his initial inspiration for this field of study.

I am deeply indebted to the Managing Director, West Bengal Sch. Castes

/ Tribes Development and Finance Corporation, Calcutta for his kind permission to carry out the study. My thanks are also due to my colleagues of West Bengal Sch. Castes/ Tribes Development and Finance Corporation, Cooch Behar and Jalpaiguri Branches for their constant inspiration and help to carry on the study.

I must pay my sincere thanks to Shri Sanjeev Chopra, I.A.S., the Additional District Magistrate, Cooch Behar (now transferred elsewhere) who took keen interest in the study and helped me in distributing the questionnaires to the elected panchayats through the Panchayat Deptt., Cooch Behar. I am grateful to the officials of Panchayat Department, Cooch Behar for their cooperation and help in this respect.

I want to express my indebtedness to my friends Shri Sudarshan Barman (who is also my colleague), Dr. Binayak Roy, MBBS and Shri Goutam Chakraborty, Teacher, Mekhliganj High School for arranging the accommodations and field setting for me during the field study. I also feel indebted to my friend Dr. Atanu Nandy, M.D. (Associate Professor, Deptt. of Microbiology, K.M.C., Mangalore) for his constant inspiration for the project. I feel paucity of words to express my indebtedness to my friend Shri Tapan Kr. Saha, of M/S Rabindra Press, Cooch Behar for his immense help, starting from the printing of the schedules and questionnaires down to the binding of the thesis.

I feel indebted to the Centre-In-Charge and Staffs, Cooch Behar College Computer Centre for their sincere teaching which helped me in preparing this thesis on my own. I also remember the help of Shri Kaushik Das of D.M. Office, Cooch Behar in this respect.

I mournfully remember the loving memory of my mother who passed away to her heavenly abode in July, 1997. She had been a constant source of inspiration to me during these years. I dedicate this work to her memory.

Last, but not least, I must pay my gratitude to my family, to my aunt Mrs. Pranati Bhattacharya and to my wife, Sudeshna, who tried their best to spare me undisturbed in day-to-day familial affairs. Who has been neglected most during this long period of research work is my little son, Mayukh. Without his tolerance and patience, completion of this work would have been difficult.

*Date: 5.12.98
Cooch Behar.*

*Biswajyoti Bhattacharya
(Biswajyoti Bhattacharya)*