

Contents

CHAPTER 1:

Introduction _____	1
The origin of the private language problem: _____	3
The significance of the private language problem: _____	8
An overview of the thesis: _____	12

CHAPTER 2:

Philosophers' Views in Favour of the Possibility of Private Language _____	20
Descartes' view: _____	22
Ayer's view: _____	37
PLA in the contemporary times: Chomsky and Fodor _____	43

CHAPTER 3:

The Impossibility of Private Language after Later Wittgenstein _____	49
Wittgenstein's imaginary idea of a private language: _____	53
The method of the private language argument: _____	58
Was Wittgenstein a behaviourist? _____	64
The therapeutic role of the PLA: _____	77

CHAPTER 4:

Private Language Argument and the Problem of Other Minds _____	84
The scepticism about other minds: _____	90
The search for criterial justification: _____	101
Can language bridge the gap? _____	113

CHAPTER 5:

Language, Thought and their Dimensions in the Light of the PLA _____	119
Understanding the transition from Tractatus and the intention of PI: _____	120
The art and the musicality of language: _____	130
The bedrock of language, thought and meaning in PLA: _____	141
Can there be thought independent of language? _____	149

CHAPTER 6:

Concluding Remarks _____	157
The broader perspective of the PLA: _____	160
Looking from a bird's eye view: _____	172
The way to go with the PLA: A contemporary perspective _____	182
Bibliography : _____	195

List of abbreviations:

PLA: Private Language Argument

PI: Philosophical Investigations

LOT: Language of Thought

List of Illustrations:

Illustration 4.1: The 1st person perspective: p. 97

Illustration 4.2: Justification from behavioural criteria: p. 107