

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am grateful to Dr. Satya Bhattacharyya, Reader, Department of Commerce, North Bengal University, for his guidance and encouragement in carrying out this study. I am also grateful to Dr. Manas Dasgupta, Professor, Department of Economics. I confess that without his advice and guidance it would not have been possible to submit this thesis. Indispensible help of both of them has always been a source of inspiration to me. I express my deep sense of gratitude to them.

I would like to acknowledge the academic assistance and co operation I have received from my friends Sri Ujit Ray, Sri Debasis Bhattacharyya and Sri Samir Dhar, Faculty Members, Department of Commerce and Sri Sadhan Dev, Malda Museum. I also thankful to Sri Indir Sanyal, Malda Railway High School; Dr. Tarit Kumar Dutta, Indian Institute of Management, Calcutta; Sri Kamal Basak, Malda Govt. Teachers Training College; Sri Gopal Laha and Prosasti Ghosh.

I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Rabindranath Bhattacharyya and Sri Sanjib Bose, Readers, Department of Economics, N. B. University for their suggestions and assistance.

My gratitude is also extended to the authorities and personnel of VMUL and SMUL for providing their earnest co operation and information.

I wish to thank all those persons living in the selected villages or associated with the milk co operatives.

I also express my deep gratitude to my several friends especially Sri Usim Chowdhury, Sri Umal Saha, Sri Usofe Karmakar, Sri Uis Sarkar, Sri Sanat Nag, Sri Subabrata Chakraborty and Sri Tarun Debnath for their different types of assistance to me. Some of my students Sri Moloy Banerjee and Sri Pradipta Majumder, also deserve special mention for their various assistance.

Lastly, I am sincerely grateful to all of my colleagues including Headmaster Sri Some Sarkar Singha for their all helps rendered to me.

Finally, I express my deepest appreciation to my parents for their years of assistance encouragement and stimulating experiences.
