

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I consider it my duty to acknowledge at the outset, my indebtedness to Dr. Buddhadeb Chaudhuri, M.Sc., Ph.D. (Anthropology), P.R.S., Reader in Sociology, Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology, North-Bengal University. In the midst of his official preoccupations, Dr. Chaudhuri ungrudgingly provided me with his invaluable expertise, It was his constant encouragement, understanding and friendly guidance and supervision that kept up my morale.

Sri Krishnapada Kundu, a Senior Research Fellow (U.G.C.), Department of Social Work, has been of immense help to me, particularly during the manual processing of data and statistical computation. I gratefully acknowledge my indebtedness to him.

I am also grateful to Professor G.P. Krishna Rao, Head, Department of Social Work, Visva-Bharati and Professor N.B. Pillai, Department of Social Work, Visva-Bharati, for their encouragement as well as for providing me necessary facilities for carrying out the present study.

I must express my indebtedness to the Chairman of the Research Committee, Visva-Bharati, for providing me the necessary funds to meet the expenses of the present study.

For countless help, encouragement and co-operation I received from Professor N. Chowdhury, Head of the Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology, North-Bengal University and all the members of the teaching staff of his Department have given me encouragement and help in countless ways. I express my gratitude to all of them.

I am thankful to Dr.(Mrs.) Sumita Chaudhuri for the inspiration and encouragement that she gave me for carrying on the work.

The villagers who constituted the respondents for this study have patiently co-operated with me. But for their valuable help from them, the study could not have been completed. I record my deep sense of obligation to them.

Among those who have contributed significantly to the present work, I thankfully record the names of Sri Anil Roy, Sri Adhir Ghosh, Sri Badal Mete, Sri Saktipada Das, Sri Gopinohan Mukherjee, Sk. Ibrahim Adham, Md. Kader Jellani, Md. Abdul Rob, Sri Mongla Murmu, Sri Hela Maddi.

I very much appreciate all the help I have received from my wife Smt. Saswati Khan, in the preparation of the project. She and our three children, Indrajit, Housumi and Abhijit have born with patience and understanding the long spells of absence from home during fieldwork. This co-operation and the support have been constant source of encouragement to complete the thesis. I am also sincerely grateful to my mother who gave me encouragement in every step for completing the thesis.

Above all, I owe all that I am, to my late father in whom I have seen divinity.
