

CONTENTS

	Page No.
CHAPTER I: INTRODUCTION	1
1.0 Introduction	2
1.1 The Issue	3
1.2 Hypothesis	7
1.3 Objectives	8
1.4 Methodology	8
1.5 Study Area	10
1.6 Survey Technique	10
1.7 Sample Coverage	12
1.8 Limitations	32
1.9 Outline of the Work	33
CHAPTER II: HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY AND REGIONAL ECONOMY: AN APPRAISAL	36
2.0 Introduction	37
2.1 Concept of Household Industry	38
2.2 Role of Household Industry in the Economy	42
2.3 Review of Literature	49
2.4 Conclusion	60
CHAPTER III: TYPE AND OCCURRENCE OF IMPORTANT HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRIES IN INDIA: AN OVERVIEW	66
3.0 Introduction	67
3.1 Major Household Industries in India	67
3.2 Major Household Industries of West Bengal	74
3.3 Major Household Industries of the Study Area	78

3.4	Institutions Involved for Promotion and Development of Household Industries in India	80
3.5	Schemes of Government of West Bengal for the Development of Household Industrial Articles	87
3.6	Conclusion	90

CHAPTER IV: TRENDS AND PATTERNS OF DISTRIBUTION OF HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRIAL WORKERS IN INDIA 93

4.0	Introduction	94
4.1	Trends and Patterns of Distribution of Household Industrial Workers in India	95
4.2	Trends and Patterns of Distribution of Rural and Urban Household Industrial Workers in India	101
4.3	Patterns of Distribution of Marginal Household Industrial Workers in India	106
4.4	Trends and Patterns of Distribution of Household Industrial Workers in West Bengal	111
4.5	Trends and Patterns of Distribution of Rural and Urban Household Industrial Workers in West Bengal	116
4.6	Patterns of Distribution of Marginal Household Industrial Workers in West Bengal	122
4.7	Trends and Patterns of Distribution of Household Industrial Workers in Jalpaiguri District	126
4.8	Trends and Patterns of Distribution of Rural and Urban Household Industrial Workers in Jalpaiguri District	131
4.9	Patterns of Distribution of Marginal Household Industrial Workers in Jalpaiguri District	136
4.10	Conclusion	141

CHAPTER V: INVENTORY OF THE HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRIES 143

5.0	Introduction	144
5.1	The Sectoral and Sectional Distribution of the Units Surveyed	144
5.2	Ethnic Background of the Workers	145

5.3	Major Raw Materials in Use	152
5.4	Major Articles Produced	161
5.5	Servicing and Repairing	173
5.6	Seasonal Variation in Production	173
5.7	Tools and Accessories	178
5.8	Marketing Mechanism in Practice	186
5.9	Conclusion	192

CHAPTER VI: ECONOMIC CHARACTERISTICS OF SELECTED HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRIES 195

6.0	Introduction	196
6.1	Factors of Production	197
6.2	Size of the Units	197
6.3	Organisation of Labour According to Sex	199
6.4	Role of Part-time Workers	203
6.5	Age Structure of the Workers	207
6.6	Experience of the Workers	207
6.7	Organisation of Workers According to Skill	216
6.8	Hours of Daily Operation	218
6.9	Capacity Utilisation of the Workers	225
6.10	Educational Attainment	232
6.11	Distance Covered for Purchase of Raw Materials	234
6.12	Distance Covered for Sale of Finished Products	239
6.13	Credit Source of Expenditure	241
6.14	Percentage of Goods Sold to Different Agencies	246
6.15	Fixed Capital Asset	249
6.16	Cost of Production	255
6.17	Annual Output per Unit (Rs.)	255

6.18	Value Added Per Unit (Rs.)	257
6.19	Income Pattern	262
6.20	Economic Indicators	268
6.21	Conclusion	271

CHAPTER VII: PROBLEMS OF DEVELOPMENT OF HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRIES 273

7.0	Introduction	274
7.1	Problems Related with Raw Materials	275
7.2	Problems Related to Finance	277
7.3	Problems Related to Marketing	280
7.4	Problems Related to Transport	282
7.5	Problems of Storage	282
7.6	Obsolete Technology	283
7.7	Competition from Different Sectors and Lack of Competitive Efficiency	284
7.8	Seasonal Fluctuations of Production	285
7.9	Shift of Occupation from Household Industries to Other Sectors	286
7.10	Problems Related to Training of the Workers	286
7.11	Lack of Entrepreneurship and Follow-up Programmes	287
7.12	Problems Related to Exhibitions Organised by the Government	288
7.13	Lack of Awareness Regarding Government Schemes and Programmes	288
7.14	Lack of Publicity	288
7.15	Poor Living Condition of the Workers and Lack of Medical Assistance	289
7.16	Lack of Co-operation among the Workers	289
7.17	Lack of Research and Development Efforts	289
7.18	Conclusion	290

CHAPTER VIII: MODELLING OF VARIABLES FOR THE MECHANISM OF INCOME GENERATION AND INTERPRETATION OF STRUCTURAL RELATIONS	293
8.0 Introduction	294
8.1 Regression Analysis of Food-processing	295
8.2 Regression Analysis of Handloom	306
8.3 Regression Analysis of Rope-making	318
8.4 Regression Analysis of Bamboo-work	328
8.5 Regression Analysis of Cane-work	338
8.6 Regression Analysis of Carpentry	348
8.7 Regression Analysis of Pottery	359
8.8 Regression Analysis of Blacksmithy	368
8.9 Regression Analysis of Household Industries – In Aggregate	379
8.10 Conclusion	389
CHAPTER IX: POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS	391
9.0 Introduction	392
9.1 Policy Recommendation for the Distribution of Raw Materials	393
9.2 Policy Recommendation for Credit Facilities and Financial Support	395
9.3 Policy Recommendation for the Development of Skill and Management Training	397
9.4 Policy Recommendation for the Development of Entrepreneurship	399
9.5 Policy Recommendation for Modernisation of Production Technology and Diversification of Products	402
9.6 Policy Recommendations for Marketing Facilities	405
9.7 Policy Recommendation for the Development of Household Industrial Articles through Tourism	410
9.8 Policy Recommendation for Protection from Organised Sectors	411
9.9 Policy Recommendation for the Development of Infrastructure	412

9.10	Policy Recommendation for Extension of Employment Opportunities during Slack Season	413
9.11	Policy Recommendation for the Establishment of Co-operatives	414
9.12	Policy Recommendation for Sustainable Development of Household Industries	414
9.13	Policy for Implementation of Welfare Schemes	417
9.14	Policy Recommendation For in-depth Research	417
9.15	Other Policy Recommendations	418
9.16	Conclusion	419
CHAPTER X: CONCLUSION		423
10.0	Conclusion	424
APPENDICES		430
APPENDIX I: INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY AREA – JALPAIGURI DISTRICT		431
APPENDIX II: SURVEY QUESTIONNAIRE (Proforma on Household Industrial Unit Survey)		467
APPENDIX III: SURVEY QUESTIONNAIRE (Proforma on Household Demographic Survey)		473
BIBLIOGRAPHY		477