

A C K N O W L E D G E M E N T .

The author is very much grateful to Dr.P.K.Basu, Head of the Department of Botany, North Bengal University for his valuable suggestion, guidance, discussion and helpful criticism during experimentation and preparation of this thesis.

Sincere gratitude is expressed to Prof.T.R. Sharma, ex-Director, Centre for Life sciences,NEU for his kind permission for laboratory work. The Author is also grateful to University Grants Commission, New Delhi for the provision of a research fellowship and generous financial assistance. Profound gratitude is expressed to Prof. A.K.Ghosh, Head of the Department of Chemistry,NEU for providing facilities of infra red measurements, and permitting to use the cold centrifuge.

Author is also indebted to Dr. Pakrashi, Joint Director, Indian Institute of Experimental Medicine, Calcutta; Prof. M. Bittner, Department of Botany, University of Concepcion, Chile and Prof. M.M.Hilal, Department Pharmacognosy, Faculty of Pharmacy, Cairo University, Egypt for gift of authentic solasodine, Carpesterol and glycoalkaloids respectively.

My heartfelt thanks to Dr. Hazra, a Post doctoral Scholar of Max Plank Institute, West Germany for his help in the preparation of NMR and mass spectrum of phytochemicals.

I thankfully acknowledge the skiful help of Dr. T. Pal and Dr. R. Basu, Zoological Survey of India, Calcutta for the identification of insects and providing various informations.

I also wish to express my gratitude to many Scientists including Dr. V.R. Gadwal, Glaxo Laboratories, Thane, India; Dr. R. Chakraborty, Botanical Survey of India, Calcutta; Prof. J.D. Mann, applied Biochemistry Division, Department of Scientific and Industrial Research Lincoln, Newzealand; Prof. V. Bradley, Department of Chemistry, Clayton Victoria 3168, Australia and Prof. R.J. Weston, Department of Chemistry, Scientific and Industrial Research, Petone, Newzealand for providing some important reprint of their published scientific works.

Last but not the least, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my dear parents and wife, Shanta for their encouragement, inspiration and indomitable patience throughout the span of this work.

Manoj Kumar Laha.
(Manoj Kumar Laha)
Centre for Life Sciences,
North Bengal University,
Darjeeling, India-734430.

Dated 15.7.1983.