

C O N T E N T S

CHAPTER - I

INTRODUCTION:

1-23

- 1.1. Importance.
- 1.2. Objective of Studies.
- 1.3. Plan of the Work.
- 1.4. Methodology and limitations.
- 1.5. An overview of literature and research gap.

CHAPTER - II. BACK GROUND OF SERICULTURE AND MANGO TRADE OF MALDA.

24-64

- 11.1. Economic glory.
- 11.2. Origin of the name of Malda.
- 11.3. British Factory at Old Malda.
- 11.4. Main business centres.
- 11.5. English Bazar.
- 11.6. Silk Production.
- 11.7. Banking business.
- 11.8. Indigenous and Filature system of reeling.
- 11.9. Economic survey.
- 11.10. Transport and communication.
- 11.11. Weights, measures and Wage rates.
- 11.12. Varieties of Silk clothes.
- 11.13. Financing of silk industry.

(ii)

- 11.14 Mango cultivation in the district.
- 11.15. Process of grafting.
- 11.16. Mango trade.
- 11.17. Standard of living.

C H A P T E R - III: LOCATION OF SILK CULTURE AND ORCHARD CROP IN MALDA DISTRICT. 65-83

- III.1. Factors.
- III.2. Distribution.
- III.3. Silk Co-operative Societies.
- III.4. Thana-wise location of important Sericultural villages of Malda.
- III.5. Reasons for the location of sericulture.
- III.6. Location of orchard crop in Malda district.
- III.7. Thana-wise break-up of mango orchard.
- III.8. Reasons for the location of mango orchard.
- III.9. Production of silk and mango on the basis of region.

C H A P T E R - IV : NATURE OF SERICULTURE AND ORCHARD CROP I.E., MANGO SINCE INDEPENDENCE. 84-121

- IV. 1. Nature and procedures of Silk rearing.
- IV. 2. Problems and Solutions.
- IV. 3. Supply of capital.
- IV. 4. Employment.
- IV.5. Other related issues.

(iii)

- IV.6. Nature of orchard crop of Malda.
- IV.7. Propagation of Mango.
- IV.8. Different methods of propagation.
- IV.9. Irrigation.
- IV.10. Fertilizer.
- IV.11. Acreage production and utilisation of mango.
- IV.12. Problems and remedies.
- IV.13. Supply of capital for mango production.
- IV.14. Workers employed.
- IV.15. Other related issues regarding mango.
- IV.16. Mango products.
- IV.17. Production, export and value of mango.
- IV.18. Comparative study.

CHAPTER - V. : PROBLEMS OF FINANCING SERICULTURE AND MANGO
TRADE OF MALDA. 122-126

- V.1. Problems of financing sericulture.
- V.2. Problems of financing mango trade.
- V.3. Loan from other sources.
- V.4. First District Credit plan.
- V.5. Bankwise performance.
- V.6. Problems of implementation of First District Credit plan.
- V.7. Recovery of loan.
- V.8. District Credit plan 1980-82.
- V.9. Pattern of loans to mango traders.
- V.10. Measures to be taken.

(iv)

CHAPTER - VI. : STRUCTURE OF MALDA'S ECONOMY (INFRA-STRUCTURE FACILITIES & GROWTH CENTRES)

145-174

- VI.1. Infrastructure.
- VI.2. Identification of growth centres of Malda.
- VI.3. Growth Centres.

CHAPTER - VII : LINKAGE.

175-189

- VII.1. Linkage between mango production and agriculture.
- VII.2. Three Zones of Malda.
- VII.3. Linkage between mango production, sericulture and agriculture.
- VII.4. ~~Research~~ Position at Malda.

CHAPTER - VIII : ROLE OF THE GOVERNMENT IN DEVELOPING SERICULTURE AND IN EXTENDING MANGO
ORCHARD AND THE PROCESSING OF ITS FRUITS IN MALDA.

190-220

- VIII.1. Role of the Deptt. of Sericulture.
- VIII.2. Integrated development of Sericulture.
- VIII.3. Training of Sericulturists.
- VIII.4. Annual Action Plan, 1985-86.
- VIII.5. Government in extending mango orchard.
- VIII.6. Mango Research Unit at Malda.
- VIII.8. Training programme for entrepreneurial development.
- VIII.9. Additional Employment.
- VIII.10. Industrial units and workers.
- VIII.11. Proposed resource based and Demand based industries.

(v)

VIII.12. Mango processing units.

VIII.13. Central Silk Board at Malda.

CHAPTER - IX : CONCLUSION.

221-243