

C O N T E N T S

Preface 1-11

Chapter- I

Introduction Page

Section-I	Philosophy and Psychology as inter-related disciplines.	1 - 11
Section-II	Claims of Intellect and Intuition as a source of the knowledge of Reality	12-21
Section-III	A combined approach as found in Bergson and in Existentialism	22-26

Chapter-II

(Intellect and emotion in Kierkegaard's Philosophy)

Section-I	A brief account of Kierkegaard's philosophy	27-60
Section-II	Elements of intellect and emotion in his philosophy- their relative predominance.	60-72

Contd....A.

Chapter-III

(Intellect and emotion in Heidegger's philosophy)

Section-I A brief account of Heidegger's
philosophy. 73-102

Section-II Elements of intellect and emotion in his philosophy their relative predominance. 103-110

Chapter-IV

(Intellect and emotion in Sartre's philosophy)

Section- I A brief account of Sartre's
philosophy. 111-151

Section-II Elements of intellect and emotion in his philosophytheir relative predominance. 152-164

Chapter-V

Section-I	A comparative account of the place of Intellect and emotion in the Philosophies of Kierkegaard, Heidegger and Sartre	165- 172
Section-II	Existentialism is a synthesis of both emotionalism and Intellectualism	173-176.
Section-III	The influence of Existential Intellectualism and Emotionalism on Literature	177-221
	References	222- 235
	Bibliography	236 - 242