ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The thesis is the cumulation of five years' work (2017-2022). I would like to express my profound gratitude towards many individuals, as without their kind and sincere support it would have been cumbrous for me to complete the journey.

First and foremost, a profound sense of gratitude binds me to my supervisor and pathfinder Prof. Sanjay Kumar Roy, Head of the Department, Department of Sociology, University of North Bengal. I am highly indebted to him for suggesting my area of work and for being the source of constant support and motivation throughout the journey of my research. He has also been the guide in truest sense of the term in my academic journey since my post-graduation days. I would express my humble gratitude to Prof. Roy. I am also grateful to all my teachers of the Department of Sociology, University of North Bengal, for their critical yet helpful comments in different phases of my work, which helped understand the loopholes in my work.

The thesis would not have been possible without the support of my respondents. I am grateful to some of my close acquaintances for providing me narratives of their personal lives and also helping me to find my suitable respondents during the course of fieldwork. I would like to express my deep appreciation and gratitude to all those who have contributed to the process of this PhD thesis.

I would forever remain indebted to my parents for always encouraging me to soar high and providing me with everything in life. They have been the pillars of all my accomplishments in life so far. I shall forever remain grateful to them for uplifting my spirit whenever I felt overstretched and unnerved. I should also acknowledge the contribution of my siblings, Gargi and Partha, who continuously pushed me to complete my work within a reasonable time.

I owe deep gratitude and appreciation to my husband, Tamal, who has remained a constant source of inspiration and support in this difficult journey. My little daughter, Trishika offered her innocent loving smiles and gestures at times when my spirit was low. By not being too demanding she has helped me to complete my work in time.

I shall forever remain thankful to each and every individual who has helped and motivated me in different stages of my work.
