

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all I would like to express my sincere gratitude to Professor Ananda Gopal Ghosh, Department of History, University of North Bengal, who has been my supervisor since the beginning of my early career. He was my supervisor in M.Phil dissertation also. He provided me with all important and helpful suggestions, imperative advices and constant encouragement during the course of this work. Without his support and guidance this work won't have been possible to complete. I am deeply indebted to him for his valuable advice and inspiration.

I wish to offer my special gratitude to all my teachers and colleagues of University of North Bengal for their encouragement and support throughout my career. I also wish to express my appreciation to Dr. Anita Bagchi and Prof. Ratna Roy Sanyal, Department of History, University of North Bengal, who provided me with books to improve the quality of this study.

I would like to convey my special thanks to the librarian and all the staffs of the Central Library, University of North Bengal, for their cordial support and help to provide all the support materials required for this work.

I would also like to express my special thanks to National Library, Kolkata, State Archives (Kolkata) and National Archives of India (Delhi).

My special gratitude to my family, my little son and particularly my mother for their understanding and support during these years.

Finally, I would like to express special thanks to my husband, who helped me to concentrate on completing this work and supported mentally during the course of this work. Without his help and encouragement, this study would not have been completed. I want to pay special thanks for his computer assistance.

The responsibility for all errors remains mine alone.
