

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This dissertation would not have materialised but for the guidance of Dr. S.K.Choudh, Director, Centre for Himalayan Studies, North Bengal University. I thank him for his guidance at every stage of this work and for his kind understanding of all my problems.

For the purpose of this study I visited the National Library, Calcutta, the library of the 'Centre for Studies in Social Sciences', Calcutta and mainly the library of North Bengal University. I thank the librarians of all these libraries for the help they extended to me in using the materials available in their libraries.

While doing my field work in Kalinpong I received unexpected help both in the town and in the villages. In addition to the Panchayat members and the president of the Panchayat Samiti I am specially grateful to the Project Director of the Comprehensive Area Development Project, the Evaluation Officer, Block Development Office, Kalinpong and to the officials of the Hill Development Board, Darjeeling.

I thank the villagers for the help and affection received from them during my stay in the villages. Without their help the field work would not be possible.

I thank the teachers, research fellows and staff of the 'Centre for Himalayan Studies', for helping me whenever I needed their assistance.

I am grateful to Dr.H.N.Karna, Department of Sociology,

U.B.U., Shillong for his valuable suggestions.

I am also thankful to the University Grants' Commission for awarding me a U.G.C. Fellowship without which the work could not be started in the first place.

Last but not the least was the help and encouragement received from my family members and friends and I am thankful to all of them.
