At the beginning of this acknowledgement I am to express my obligation to the University of North Bengal an institution of higher education of excellence whose calm and beautiful large campus with its infrastructural and geo-physical support provided me to complete this work.

I very humbly express my indebtedness to Dr. Kanti Lal Das, Reader, Department of Philosophy, North Bengal University, my guide, my philosophy, my supervisor of this work, who effectively motivated me to exert all efforts necessary to complete, analyse and to maintain a balance flow in preparation and completion of this thesis. I am grateful to him for his kind guidance in leading me in every stage. such as reference to Library Books, going through Journals, collection from website and references from Newspapers etc., whenever I required despite his busy schedule. I am also grateful to Madam Arpana (Dhar) Das, wife of Dr. K.L. Das, for sparing my 'Sir', whenever I needed guidance within the times of his family schedules.

I express my heartiest gratitude to Dr. Raghunath Ghosh, Head of the Department of Philosophy for his suggestions and regular encouragement throughout my entire work for which it was possible to complete the thesis within this short span of time.

I am also grateful to all Professors and Lecturers of the Department of Philosophy for their encouragement and cooperation.

I also thank all staff members of the Department of Philosophy. All staff members of the central Library did extend hands of cooperation whenever needed. I thank them all.

I am also grateful to my relatives, my near and dear ones, specially my mother for their cooperation and their bearing with me since I owe something of considerable extent to them in my personal life. I also thank my uncle Mr. R. Islam, Deputy Director of Accounts, School Education Department, Siliguri, for his encouragement who stood beside me during my entire work.
