

CONTENTS

Chapter	Page
Acknowledgement	iii-iv
About Noam Chomsky	vii-x
Preface	xi-xxviii
I ——— Transformational Generative Grammar (TGG): The Linguistic Foundation.	1-5
I.a. Phrase Structure Grammar.	5-8
I.b. The Inadequacy of P.S.	8-11
I.c. Inadequacy of P.S. Rules	11-14
I.d. A Plea for Transformation Rules (T-Rules)	14-15
I.e. Difference between P.S. Rules and T-Rules	16-18
I.f. A Plea for Deep Structure of Sentence.	18-23
II ——— Creativity, Competence and Performance: A Contrast.	24-32
II.a. Nature and Significance of Linguistic Competence.	32-36
II.b. The Nature of Competence.	36-37
II.c. The Nature of Idealization.	38-42
II.d. Competence-Performance Dichotomy.	42-45
II.e. Competence Versus Performance: A Contrast	45-47
II.f. Competence Versus Creativity: A Contrast.	47-56

Chapter	Page
III ——— A Plea for Innatism.	57-69
III.a. A Comparison Between Descartes and Chomsky.	69-70
III.b. Descartes' Problem in Linguistics.	70-75
III.c. Re-examination of Copper's Standpoint.	75-79
III.d. Linguistic Universal.	79-81
III.e. Different modes of Linguistic Universals.	81-83
IV ——— Language and Mind.	84-91
IV.a. Language and the brain.	91-95
IV.b. Language-Acquisition.	95-98
IV.c. Various stages of LAD.	98-99
IV.d. The Critical period Hypothesis.	99-103
IV.e. Other determinate factors of Chomskyan Psycholinguistic analysis.	103-105
V ——— An Internalist Approach of Language use.	106-110
V.a. The function of I-language (grammatical competence)	111-119
VI ——— Language and Interpretation: Chomskyan Tussle against Semantics.	120-134
Section-II	134-144
VII ——— Concluding Remarks.	145-168
Selected Bibliography	169-175.
