

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

This is an opportunity to record my indebtedness to my revered teacher Prof. S.K.Chatterjee, M.Sc.(Cal), Ph.D.(USA), Director of Cinchona and Other Medicinal Plants, Govt. of West Bengal, India and Director of Pharmaceutical and Phytochemical Development Corporation, West Bengal, India and formerly Head of the Department of Botany and Dean of the Faculty of Science, University of Burdwan, who has initiated in me the quest for Research in the fascinating field of physiology and biochemistry of Medicinal Plants. Without his constant inspiration, valuable guidance and steadfast encouragement the present thesis could never have been completed.

My deep sense of gratitude is due to Dr. P.K.Basu, Head of the Department of Botany, University of North Bengal, Co-investigator of this investigation for his comments, corrections and suggestions during research period.

My special thanks are due to the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research, New Delhi, for granting me a Research fellowship.

I extend my deepest and sincere appreciation to Dr. M.A. Choudhuri, Reader of Plant Physiology and Biochemistry,

University of Burdwan, for extending help and suggestions in many ways during the tenure of this Research programme.

I gratefully acknowledge the Director of Bose Institute, Calcutta for allowing me to perform all essential library works at his library.

I sincerely acknowledge the kindness of many of my colleagues for helping me towards a better understanding of my subject, especially of Dr. R.P.Nandi, Horticulturist, Directorate of Cinchona and Other Medicinal Plants.

Thanks are also due to the assistants and staffs of the Research Laboratory, Mungpoo, Directorate of Cinchona and Other Medicinal Plants for their well co-operation.

I am very grateful to Mr. D.L.Rai for typing this thesis.

My heartfelt inclination is due to my parents for their inspiration and encouragement.

Lastly, I owe very much to my wife, Sipra Chatterjee, whose constant inspiration, patience and encouragement have led me to success.
