

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The study is descriptive, analytical, explanatory, normative and comparative. In the preparation of this dissertation the methodology followed has been one of library research. For this study primary sources such as private papers, autobiographies and necessary correspondence have been consulted. Archival papers and documents have been of immense help. Besides these, some observations, views, comments and writings on these political thinkers have been consulted. For the primary sources I have been immensely benefitted by the National Archives of India, New Delhi, Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, New Delhi, National Library, Calcutta, and the Central Library of University of North Bengal, Dt. Darjeeling. I have been much benefitted by my college library. For the primary materials I have consulted Nehru's Collected Works and his valuable books and his speeches and writings. On Lohia and Asoke Mehta, their books, speeches, and correspondence have been consulted. The critical literature available has also been consulted.

In preparing this study, I have ~~been~~ greatly benefitted by the wise counsel and most invaluable suggestions from my revered teacher, Dr. Pradip Kumar Sengupta, Professor and Head, Department of Political Science, University of North Bengal, Raja Rammohunpur, Dt. Darjeeling, who had very kindly helped and guided me through different stages till its completion. I sincerely convey my indebtedness to him.

I have been amply benefitted from my discussions with my resered teacher, Prof. Dyntish Chakraborty, Department of Political Science, University of North Bengal, Dt. Darjeeling, Dr. Sanjoy Roy, Reader, Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology, University of North Bengal, gave me necessary advice and instructions. I also express my gratitude to the teachers of the department of political science, University of North Bengal, Dt. Darjeeling.

I entirely bear the shortcomings, if any, of this work.
